U.S. hopeful Alaska oilfield may be 'another Kuwait'

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — Sometime next month, workmen and equipment will be ferried to the shores of remote Lake Teshekpuk and the long-awaited tapping of what could be Alaska's largest oilfield will begin.

By winter's end, contractors expect to have two of 26 planned deep wells in operation in the 37,000-square-mile area southeast of here known as Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4.

"The potential is here — definitely," said Lt. Cmdr. Terrence J. Woods, the Navy's officer in charge of the reserve. "The odds are high, but given a 26-well program, we think we are going to find some gas and oil."

Just how much oil the crews hired for the job by Husky Oil NPR Operations, Inc., will find isn't certain. The government two decades ago estimated 33 billion barrels, though some say it may go as high as 100 billion.

The U.S. Geological Survey in June reported the country's proven reserves at 34.25 billion barrels, a supply of something over five years. The total did not include unproven reserves, nor did it include offshore oil.

Prospects alone suggested to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash. the field may be "another Kuwait."

Husky's crews will operate from a staging area on the Beaufort Sea about 100 miles southeast of here that is so remote it is called "Lonely." There are no roads into the icy oilfield, so operations will be supplied by air and, in some cases, by tractor trains plying an arduous overland route.

Pet-4, as the new field is called, is west of Alaska's first big oil find, Prudhoe Bay.

Prudhoe's recoverable reserves have been estimated conservatively at 9.6 billion barrels — enough oil to justify construction of the 800-mile, $6 billion-plus trans-Alaska pipeline.

Woods said he expects Husky to award necessary subcontracts by the end of the month, since drilling must be done between late December to mid-May of each year.

During the first year, Husky says it expects to spend about $47 million for the work.

President Warren Harding set aside the Pet-4 reserve in 1923, but nothing further was done until 1944, when exploration work began. Three significant oil discoveries were made then, along with discovery of six significant natural gas deposits.

The U.S. Geological Survey, after the preliminary exploration between 1944 and 1953, estimated recoverable oil reserves there could amount to as much as 33 billion barrels.

The Navy, after an extensive geophysical survey, sank two exploratory wells last year. The first, Iko Bay No. 1, was 22 miles southeast of here. It was judged a "marginal gas well." Work at the second, Cape Halkett No. 1, about 100 miles southeast of Barrow, was suspended in May. Crews reported the site a dry hole.

Valley doctors will vote Thursday on slowdown

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The already severe shortage of doctors in the valley threatens to become even more acute in two weeks.

A doctors' spokesman said local physicians may be forced to abandon or modify their practices due to skyrocketing medical malpractice insurance premiums due Jan. 1.

"Physicians in this valley have vigorously pursued every avenue to ward off this crisis," said Dr. Stephen D. Proffitt, president of Los Angeles County Medical Association's District 14.

"The health care of the community is our only concern, but this care is in serious jeopardy because of the medical liability crisis that engulfs valley and state doctors."

Since Nov. 1, between five and 10 per cent of the area's doctors are gone, Dr. Proffitt said. They've either lef tthe area or stopped practice.

"An additional five to 10 per cent are radically modifying their practice to eliminate minor surgery, obstetrics and some high-risk procedures," he added.

"This means the problem of transporting these patients to county facilities in Los Angeles."

Dr. Fritz H. Moser, chief of staff at Pomona Valley Community Hospital said that anesthesiologists have refused to care for Medi-Cal surgeries since Dec. 1, with the exception of emergencies.

"As of Jan. 1, valley orthopedic surgeons have said that they, too, can no longer handle MediCal surgeries because of the low rate of reimbursement from the state for these patients." Dr. Moser said.

Dr. Moser said that on Thursday night, local doctors will vote as to whether to participate in a slowdown which has been recommended by the Union of American Physicians.

"How many physicians on our staff would actually participate in such a slowdown is not known at this time," said Dr. Moser. "But it could be a considerable number.

"Most of our doctors have said they would find it difficult to refuse patients without examination to determine the urgency of a problem."

Dr. Jay J. Palmer, pathologist at PVCH and the district's delegate at LACMA, pointed out that the California Medical Association and the Southern California Association are continuing to work toward additional changes and physicians' insurance group in attempt to ward off the increased rates.

This establishment of a physicians' insurance exchange is one of the four options open to physicians faced with a 486 per cent increase in premiums at the first of the year.

Other options offered to the doctors, according to Dr. Palmer, are: Pay the increase which will be as high as $36,000 for certain specialities; go without insurance; or retire from practice or move to a state where the insurance is more reasonable.

"The community must realize the direct effects of this crisis upon their own personal care and cost of medical services," said Dr. Proffitt.

"These costs and problems will surely be felt immediately."

Dr. Moser said, "Our patients' interests are in jeopardy when our ability to practice is threatened by intolerable premiums.

"Whatever steps doctors in this valley will take on Jan. 1 or Jan. 15, provisions will be made for emergency care at all times at the hospitals," he said.

"Backup services will function as usual, but there may be longer waiting periods and delays for the less acutely ill patients.

"Patients and physicians alike would be inconvenienced, but no one should suffer life-threatening consequences if we put our contingency plan into effect."

This contingency plan — or slowdown — started Monday in other areas of the Southland has had only marginal success. But doctors protesting the soaring rates for insurance say the impact will be felt more strongly in the coming days.

Slayer confesses

4 convicted cyclists freed after spending two years in prison

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Four members of a California motorcycle club sentenced to die for the brutal mutilation slaying of an Albuquerque man were free today — after spending nearly two years in jail.

District Court Judge Phillip Baiamonte dismissed murder, rape and sodomy indictments against Richard W. Greer, Ronald B. Keine, Clarence Smith Jr. and Thomas V. Gladish Monday in light of what he termed "crucial exculpatory evidence."

Baiamonte ordered the men released on a petition by their lawyers, who said a confession to the February 1974 murder by Kerry Rodney Lee, 25, Rome, Ga., and other evidence showed their innocence.

The judge placed particular emphasis on a ballistics report linking bullets found in Velten's body to a pistol available to Lee, but apparently not to the defendants.

Greer says he doesn't feel bitter about the 18 months on death row, where the bikers were sent after convicted of the murder they say they didn't commit.

"When I think back, it wasn't bad," he said.

And Greer said he has changed.

"Two years ago I felt I knew the answers to life but I've gotten a real good education the past two years...." he said.

Smith telephoned his mother in California, and said, "She was crying so hard I couldn't talk to her."

Baiamonte said the men could be retried for the slaying if a grand jury chooses to return an indictment in light of the new evidence, including Lee's confession and the ballistics results.

Dist. Atty. James Brandenburg, who said earlier he was prepared to retry the men, said Monday he had no plans to resubmit their case to the grand jury or to present any charges against Lee in the immediate future.

He added, however, that "might change within a week or so, or it may not. It's entirely possible if we felt we did not have an adequate case it would never be presented to the grand jury."

Brandenburg said last week somebody would be tried for Velten's murder.

David Freedman, a lawyer for Lee, said it is a financial hardship on Lee to stay in Albuquerque, waiting for a decision by the district attorney's office.

"At this point there's no reason for him to stay, but if he leaves and at some future point is indicted, he will present himself voluntarily as he has in the past," Freedman said.

The bikers were arrested and convicted after the body of Velten, a 26-year-old University of New Mexico student, was found in Tijeras Canyon east of Albuquerque. The bikers contended they weren't in Albuquerque when Velten was murdered.

Judith Weyer, a motel maid, played a large part in the initial conviction.

The bikers, she said, forced her to watch the killing in the motel where she worked.

Mrs. Weyer recanted her testimony earlier this year, saying she made up the entire story. She was pressured, she said, by sheriff's deputies investigating the case.

Senate maneuvering to end U.S. intervention in Angola

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is maneuvering to end U.S. intervention in Angola with some members voicing fears that the newly independent African nation could become another Vietnam.

The Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on foreign assistance may vote today on a resolution by Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, that would cut off U.S. funds for military or paramilitary operations in Angola.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said on Monday he will ask the Senate, after it holds a secret session Wednesday, to bar use of any funds in the $112.3 billion defense appropriation bill for anything except intelligence gathering in Angola.

The two moves resulted from published reports that the CIA has committed up to $50 million for the military support of two factions fighting Soviet-backed forces in Angola.

"It is shades of Vietnam all over again," Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said in Senate debate Monday.

Wednesday's secret Senate session will be held to consider the compromise defense appropriations bill, which includes an undisclosed amount of money for the CIA. The move to hold a closed-door session blocks consideration of the bill until senators determine if funds in the bill can be used in Angola.

The appropriations bill was passed by the House last Friday.

Chairman John J. McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate Appropriations Committee said he could not in open session disclose whether any money in the bill could be used for military aid in Angola.

The defense bill normally contains funds in undisclosed accounts for the activities of the CIA.

Tunney said he and other cosponsors of the Angola aid ban amendment suspect that $25 million in the bill is intended for use in Angola, although McClellan told the Senate there is no money in the bill specifically earmarked for Angola.

Tunney said that unless other senators were given the facts in secret session they might be voting for funds that would be used for purposes they oppose.

Clark, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on African affairs, said the Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees normally are advised, through briefing of their senior members, of covert CIA operations and "I believe those reports were regularly made" in the Angola case.

Church said the Senate Intelligence Committee, which he heads, also was informed "after the fact," but was bound to secrecy and lacked any power to veto Angola operations.

Church said that, despite the civil war in Angola, the determination for independence is so strong that "whichever side wins it will be Angolan, not Russian or American."

"We don't belong in Angola," Church told the Senate.

Worst fog in 20 years hits London

LONDON (AP) — Britons shivered and groped for the second straight day today in the worst fog in 20 years. Motorists crawled gingerly to work on icy roads, train commuters were late reaching their offices, and all flights from London's Heathrow Airport were canceled.

The fog cut down road visibility to 20 yards in some places in the southeast, and at Heathrow over 1,000 passengers had to spend a cold and uncomfortable night stretched out on benches and chairs.

The fog took Britons by surprise. The traditional "pea soup" fogs that at one time used to swirl over the country had virtually disappeared following "clean air" legislation that banned the use of open coal fires in towns and insisted on smoke control in factories.

Suspect in prof slaying to be tried as an adult

The 17-year-old Tempe, Ariz., youth charged with robbing and murdering Cal Poly professor William C. Warner Oct. 20, has been ruled unfit to be tried as a juvenile and will be prosecuted in adult court.

The decision was made at a so-called "fitness hearing" in Eastlake Juvenile Court in Los Angeles. The youth is Richard Sinnott, who was arrested in his home in Arizona Oct. 30.

Sheriff's investigators, who are handling the case, said previously that they intended to attempt to have Sinnott adjudged unfit for consideration as a juvenile, but were not optimistic of their chances.

Warner, 53-year-old professor of urban planning, was found beaten to death in his apartment at 1266 Diamond Bar Blvd. Investigators later linked the suspect to the case and sent a warrant for his arrest to the Maricopa County Sheriff's Department in Phoenix. Deputies of that agency arrested Sinnott and later turned him over to local deputies for return to Los Angeles.

Investigators said later that Sinnott was in Southern California because he was employed as a truck driver, had met the victim in a bar and had accompanied him home.

Sinnott, who was on probation in Arizona at the time of his arrest, was scheduled to be arraigned today in Pomona Municipal Court.

L.V. couple may be able to keep child

A La Verne couple whose chances of holding on to an adopted Cambodian infant were challenged Monday by a court ruling may be able to keep the child after all.

But Mr. and Mrs. William Wagoner of 1754 Kendrick Drive must apply to a new adoption agency.

A decision by U.S. District Judge Irving Hill that there could be no religious discrimination against adoptive parents has divested World Vision of authority international to place 20 Cambodian children with parents who belonged to the same denomination as that organization.

The judge assigned that authority to the Los Angeles County Department of Adoptions.

Wagoner said this morning that the couple will now apply to the county for a license as special foster parents to keep the child, Rous.

Later the Wagoners will apply for adoption through the county.

Wagoner said he and his wife felt good about the decision because they could see a way to a satisfactory solution.

World Vision, and its local arm, Family Ministries of Whittier, had brought the infants here and assigned them to parents who were active members of an Evangical Protestant church. When a prospective parent, whose belief was different from that of the two agencies, was turned down for adoption, he brought suit charging racial discrimination.

Upland council gives reprieve to TV cable firm

Residents of northern Upland and adjacent county areas will continue to see their favorite holiday programs on cable television as the result of action at Monday's meeting of the Upland City Council.

Instead of canceling the franchise of International Cable TV as planned, the council voted instead to continue the agreement until Feb. 5 to allow International and Theta Cable television to complete a cooperative agreement between them.

Under the proposed agreement, the service to residents will be upgraded without which would have been nessitated discontinued service for several months while one firm removed its lines and the other put up new ones, according to City Atty. Don Maroney.

International has agreed to rebuild its cable plant to provide for 30 video channel carriage in Upland and in the part of San Bernardino County served from the Upland system. This is to be completed by March 30, 1976.

Theta will connect its cable system to the rebuilt International Cable plant no later than April 10, according to the agreement.

The signed agreement is to be presented to the council at its Feb. 5 meeting, stated Maroney.

The request of Dr. Robert J. Schecter for a conditional use permit to construct a veterinary hospital in a highway commercial area was granted by the council. The hospital, to be located on the northwest corner of Central Avenue and Huntington Drive will not serve as a kennel, said Dr. Schechter.

The only animals to be boarded would be those of clients or animals kept overnight for treatment, and these would be housed inside of the hospital, added the veterinarian.

A conditional use permit was also granted to Matreyek Homes, Inc., to establish a planned community of 120 units at the northwest corner of Mountain Avenue and 17th Street.

Council members were told the community will have less density than what the area was previously zoned. The development has curved, cul de sac streets and no lot lines. The developer's request for an additional break in the median on Mountain Avenue will be considered at a later time by the city staff.

A request for a zone change on a lot owned by the La Verne Cooperative Citrus Association drew protests from several men in the audience who reside in the vicinity of the site north of Eighth Street and west of Third Avenue.

Several called the area "a mess" and "junky."

Maroney suggests that, instead of a zone change, a contract be drawn up between the city and the citrus association allowing for the requested changes allowing a storage area at the site but with stipulations that specific improvements be made by the association.

In other action the Upland council voted to increase the salary of the city treasurer, a part-time post, from $90 per month to $200.

The request of the Upland Firefighters Association to place on the March 2 general election ballot a measure to improve their retirement system was denied.

Chaffey school board clears the air: no campus smoking

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

In a unanimous vote, trustees of the Chaffey Union High School District Monday night rejected the option provided under new state legislation to legalize smoking on district high school campuses Jan. 1.

Smoking will continue to be banned and the ban will be enforced. It was pointed out that the first time a student violates this rule he is warned. On a second violation, parents are called in for a conference. If a third violation occurs, the student is suspended.

The board vote followed a plea from Jim Clayton, 53, Ontario, that they not legalize campus smoking. An "expert" on the subject, Clayton said he tried his first cigaret at 7, was addicted at 17, and three weeks ago he quit, after undergoing open-heart surgery.

Schools Supt. Allan G. Smith said that while a "substantial" number of students favored legalizing smoking, "it is apparent that citizens from the community are opposed and staff response also indicates opposition."

Smith based his statements on opinions relayed through forums, questionnaires, surveys and bulletins.

A report was provided the board from each school which relayed opinions of community people, the staff and students.

Smith warned the board that their rejection of the option to legalize smoking "does not alter the fact that a serious smoking problem exists on each campus and an inordinate amount of time is required to police the campuses.

"The restroom problem is being cleared up as the district plan for centralizing restroom facilities progresses. There remains, however, the need to furnish restroom supervisors to all campuses if the plan is to be effective in keeping restrooms clear and free of smoking."

Smith said that a complete review of the district penalty policy for smoking may be in order, and that "because a student smokes does not necessarily indicate he or she is not a worthy person, uninterested in education."

Chaffey district now administers seven high schools. They are Alta Loma, Chaffey, Ontario, Montclair, Upland, Valley View and the Mountain Alternative School in Upland.

In other actions, the board:

—Held over for a future meeting a decision on whether to make physical education optional for 11th and 12th graders, as permitted by new state legislation.

—Agreed to allow two representatives from the Intra-District Student Advisory Council to serve as representatives in school board deliberations on everything except personnel matters starting in January. Alphabetical order will be followed with Alta Loma representatives serving the first month.

—In compliance with Senate Bill 1742, endorsed a plan to develop school attendance review boards "to get a handle on truancy" and named six people to begin organizing boards in each high school attendance area. They are Gene Marshall at Alta Loma, Earl Osborn at Chaffey, Phil Gosswiller at Montclair, Tony Calvo at Ontario and Dale McKeon at Upland.

C. ARNHOLT SMITH

Jury indicts Smith on 58 charges

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Financier C. Arnholt Smith, a longtime friend and benefactor of former President Richard M. Nixon, has been indicted on 58 counts, including grand theft and bank fraud.

The 76-year-old Smith was arrested at his office shortly after the county grand jury handed down the indictments Monday. He was jailed briefly but later released on his own recognizance.

Philip A. Toft, a business partner of Smith's was indicted on 42 similar counts and also released from custody on his own recognizance.

Smith was indicted by a federal grand jury last June, pleaded no contest to the charges and was fined $30,000. He was charged in that case with conspiring to defraud his bank and of misapplication of $27.5 million in bank funds.

The indictments Monday charged Smith with grand theft, evasion of state income taxes, misapplication of bank funds, forgery and conspiracy to commit grand theft.

Following the federal indictments last summer, the empire built by Smith, who had been honored as "Mr. San Diego" a decade ago, began to collapse. He still faces billions of dollars of lawsuits, most of them stemming from the failure of his United States National Bank and Westgate-California Corp.

Toft, who also was indicted by the federal grand jury in June and fined $25,000 on his no contest plea, served as president of Westgate-California, the conglomerate Smith founded which later went into receivership.

La Verne Heights may get its first park if, if and if

A six-acre site running northwest of Base Line Road and Wheeler Avenue may become the first park in La Verne Heights — but there are several ifs in the way.

The owner, Floyd Bunnelle, wants $110,000 for the property but the city is not quite ready to pay it.

Bunnelle already has an offer — somewhat less than that amount — from a private company. The City Council is asking him to wait 45 days so its legal machinery can clear the way for an offer of its own.

And the city wants the Parks and Recreation Commission to put up $33,000 from its bedroom tax funds to show "good faith."

If any of those conditions turn sour, the proposal may die.

The council has been looking at the Bunnelle property, along with two other locations, for more than two years now. But interest in buying the property really became serious only within the past month when the council found itself the probable recipient of $130,000 in government grants over the next three years.

The council, as well as the parks and recreation commission, then decided to make the acquisition of open land the Number One priority for use of that money.

However, when City Manager George Caswell pointed out that the council would only get about $32,000 in grants next year and the rest in subsequent years, Councilman Harrison Sanborn suggested that the city tap the parks commission's kitty for the down payment.

Richard Voss, chairman of the commission, protested that raiding the funds "would drain" the commission of financing other projects.

"But you said yourself that your top priority is the acquisition of open space land for park sites," Sanborn insisted. "I think you should use your reserves as good faith money to show that you really mean what you say."

Voss acquiesced.

Councilman Frank Johnson said he was not convinced that the property was worth $110,000, and suggested that the city get other appraisals.

The council put off further action until Feb. 2, and asked a representative of Bunnelle to hold off decision on selling the property to anyone else until then.

GOLDA MEIR

Israel fears PLO power in Lebanon

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — Israel will not intervene in Lebanon unless the Palestine Liberation Organization takes over in the war-torn country, says former Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir.

Speaking at a news conference here Monday, Mrs. Meir said she considers the civil war in Lebanon a tragedy for the Lebanese people, but said Israel has no intention of intervening at this point.

"If the Palestine Liberaton Organization should prevail in Lebanon, however, then we would take interventive action," she said. "Our aim is simply to see that no harm comes to Israel."

Mrs. Meir said the United Nations has become ineffective and predicted it might soon follow the path of the League of Nations into oblivion.

"When they (U.N. members) invited (PLO head Yasser) Arafat to address them — a man whose hands are dripping in the blood of innocent children — then I think it is evident there is no hope for the U.N.," Mrs. Meir said.

She was in Los Angeles to aid in the 1975 State of Israel Bonds campaign.

The former prime minister said recent Israeli raids, which reportedly resulted in deaths of civilians and children, were not reprisal raids and were aimed at headquarters of the PLO.

Moore held competent to stand trial; judge mulls guilty plea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We talked about a rage that she carries within her," says a priest who counseled Sara Jane Moore in jail. "She said, "Tell people I'm not insane."

When he left her side, says the Rev. William O'Donnell, Miss Moore was still determined to plead guilty to the charge that she tried to kill President Ford.

But a federal judge, pondering the legal complexities involved in such a plea change, still has not accepted it.

U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti, scheduled a special hearing for today on the issue.

Although ruling that Miss Moore is mentally competent to change her plea, Conti said he must be convinced that she is indeed guilty of the alleged crime.

To accept the plea, he must also find that she was sane when she fired a gun at President Ford on Sept. 22.

In reaching his decision, Conti will be guided by the memories of four witnesses — faces in the crowd when Miss Moore shot at President Ford.

The government — siding with Miss Moore in her effort to plead guilty — says it will call the witnesses at the hearing.

Conti's eventual ruling could be based on the testimony of the witnesses — including police and federal agents — and on reports from psychiatrists who have examined Miss Moore in jail.

Miss Moore insisted again Monday that she wants to plead guilty, saying, "I am at peace with myself."

She told Conti: "As I stand here, I am as frightened as I've ever been in my entire life. But I am at peace with myself. I would not change anything."

Father O'Donnell, who told reporters Monday of his conversation last week with Miss Moore, indicated that the 45year-old woman, a bookkeeper who turned FBI informer and infiltrated the radical underground, was less frightened of a lifetime in jail than she was of being declared insane.

"She's primarily concerned about how people see her," said the Rev. O'Donnell. "One of the things she said to me was, 'Tell people I'm not insane.'"

Miss Moore's attorney, James Hewitt, had favored a defense that Miss Moore suffered from insanity or diminished capacity.

"According to her logic," Father O'Donnell said, "the violence she attempted against the President is as bad as the violence the President has perpetrated on people by supporting dictatorial governments."

But he added, "there is a part of her that is sorry" about firing the shot.

The priest was asked whether Miss Moore regrets the impact of her actions on her 9-year-old son, Fred, now in a foster home.

"She is sorry," he said, "but she also feels this is one of the consquences her son must suffer. Because of the world politics he is another victim."

Hearing set for child theft case

Ronald Di Sandro, 44-year-old former Pomona man charged with stealing his children from his former wife more than ofur years ago, has been scheduled for preliminary hearing on the complaint Dec. 30 in Pomona Municipal Court.

Di Sandro was arraigned before Commissioner Thomas Peterson who scheduled the hearing and continued the defendant at liberty on $2,500 bail.

Di Sandro is accused of taking his three children, Gregory, then 11, Pamela, 10, and Sharon, 7, from St. Joseph Catholic School in Pomona on Sept. 7, 1971, without the permission of their mother, his former wife. Mrs. Di Sandro had been given custody of the children after the divorce.

Authorities reported finding Gregory Di Sandro, now 14, residing with his father near Sonara in northeastern California on Nov. 27. They said Di Sandro was living under an assumed name, but his real identity was learned after his arrest on a traffic warrant.

State to create new air basin

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (AP) — The California Air Resources Board has voted to create a new air basin covering Lake Tahoe in a move that opens the way for tougher air quality standards for the area.

By a 3-0 vote, the board Monday removed the California side of the lake basin from the Mountain Counties Air Basin and created the Lake Tahoe Air Basin.

Coastal plan reaps praise, criticism from legislators

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's proposed coastal master plan has run into some early criticism in the state legislature.

The plan was knocked both by lawmakers who said it was too strong and by others who said it was too weak when it was unveiled before the Assembly Resources, Land Use and Energy Committee Monday.

The conflicting criticism was apparently an indication of what plan backers can expect when they try to move a bill implementing the proposal through the legislature next year.

The proposal includes a long list of guidelines for coastal management and urges the legislature to create an on-going coastal commission to insure that local government carries them out.

Some committee members said the plan might be more than voters bargained for when they approved Prop. 20, the 1972 ballot measure creating a temporary coastal commission to draw up a coastal use plan.

They questioned whether local governments along the coast would be left with any authority over their own planning and if the plan would affect some types of developments several miles inland.

Assemblyman Robert Burke, R-Huntington Beach, said the plan's policy allowing residents to appeal local government development decisions to the coastal commission was too broad.

And some lawmakers suggested that the plan should be placed on the ballot for voter approval.

That suggestion was criticized by Sen. John Nejedly, a Walnut Creek Republican who sat in on the briefing.

Legislators failed to meet their responsibilities by not coming up with a coastal master plan before Prop. 20 was placed on the ballot, according to Nejedly.

"If you turn this proposal back to the people, then I think some of us ought to be turned out of here," he added.

Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, said the plan would not give the permanent coastal commission enough authority over the quality of treated sewage released into the ocean.

"You are telling us that in effect you would have very little power to prevent discharges into the sea if in fact the Water Quality Control Board were to approve it," he told commission officials.

"It seems to me that the commission whose job it is to protect coastal resources should have the ultimate say over what comes out of those pipes — not the Water Quality Control Board."

Coastal commission chairman Mel Lane said the plan was "not a perfect document," but he said its policy recommendations were "strong in their essence."

The plan has 162 policy recommendations and says that the coast should be treated as a "unique place where conservation and special kinds of development should be given priority."

It recommends that the state buy between $180 million and $200 million in selected pieces of coastal property to preserve them from development.

The plan also:

—Would, in many cases, require developers wanting to dredge or fill a marsh or estuary to first restore a wetland area of comparable value.

—Urges the legislature to revise tax laws to encourage farmers along the coast not to sell their lands to developers.

—Would ban new pollution-generating developments in coastal areas with major smog problems as long as a less environmentally sensitive area was available.

—Says that coastal development should not be allowed to leap-frog and sprawl over open lands and that coastal buildings should be designed and located to protect ocean views.

Under the proposal, local governments would have three years to amend their land use plans to reflect the state plan.

After that citizens who felt actions by their city, county or special district did not follow the coastal plan could appeal to the coastal commission.

Kissinger challenge to oil nations

WITH MOM AND DAD

U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, left, waves to some of the citizens in his hometown of Fuerth, West Germany, as he is accompanied by his parents Monday after receiving the Golden Citizen Medallion from the townfolk. His parents are Paula and Louis Kissinger.

Addresses world conference

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger challenged the oil-rich nations today to channel a large chunk of their profits to "the most wounded of their poor relatives in the Third World."

Addressing a landmark 27-nation conference on international cooperation, Kissinger said the United States and other industrialized countries cannot be expected to make up the widening gulf between rich and poor that stems partly from higher energy costs for all.

Specifically, Kissinger proposed that members of the oil exporters' cartel turn billions of dollars over to international lending agencies and bring down oil prices at the same time.

"We cannot be expected to bear the major burdens for remedying balance of payments problems in which the actions of others play such a significant role," he said.

"There is a collective obligation to act. There must be a joint program involving the industrialized as well as the oil producing countries."

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, opening the long-delayed conference which he proposed a year ago, warned the 27 participants "it would be illusory to underestimate the difficulties" they face.

He said the "muted possibility of confrontation and selfishness" overshadow the ambitious meeting, whose work in commissions is expected to go on for at least a year.

The over-all goal of the conference is to initiate a realignment of the economic balance of the world, now weighted in favor of the rich nations.

The foreign ministers representing eight industrialized states and 19 oil producing and developing countries are expected to approve the formation of four commissions dealing with energy, raw materials, development and financial matters. The United States and Saudi Arabia are expected to be named cochairmen of the all-important energy commission.

In his speech, Kissinger said the fact that representatives of the world's rich and poor were gathered at last is a commitment to the path of conciliation and common appreciation that no nation or group of nations can solve its economic problems in isolation.

He specifically called on the oil exporting countries for aid in easing the enormous balance of payments burden of the less developed.

"With the extraordinary transfer of wealth that has taken place," he said, "it is the common interest that the oil producing nations be constructive members, not challengers, of the world economic system."

The secretary said industrialized nations have been able to adjust to the quintupling of oil prices since the October 1973 Mideast war. But the developing countries, he said, have less of a margin to reduce consumption or ability to shift to alternative sources.

Kissinger said the International Monetary Fund should agree in January on how to implement the U.S. proposal that it channel $1 billion-$2 billion a year in easy loans to the poorest countries. He also said IMF members should complete negotiations in January on a new development security facility that would speed assistance to countries facing temporary shortfalls in export earnings.

Woman bilked of $500

Two women, offering to share a large amount of cash found on the street in Ontario, bilked an elderly woman out of $500 in cash and a $4,500 check Monday, Ontario police reported.

Mrs. Lillie McGrew, 87, of Ontario, called police to report that she had just been the victim of a "pigeon drop," one of the most widely used confidence schemes used to bilk elderly persons out of their life savings.

Mrs. McGrew told police that as she was walking hime Monday a woman, described as a Caucasian, 25 to 30, with long brown hair started a conversation about the weather with her.

Mrs. McGrew said a short time later another woman, described as a Negro, 25 to 30, with short brown hair ran up to them with a pouch in her hand she claimed contained a large amount of cash. The Negro woman told them she had found the money on the street and didn't know what to do with it, police said.

Mrs. McGrew said she saw a large amount of money in the pouch. The Caucasian woman then told them her boss was a local attorney and could advise them about what to do with the money. Mrs. McGrew said she took the two women to her home and one of them called her "attorney boss" on the phone. The woman said her boss told her they could keep the money, but each would have to put up some "good faith" money to share in the find after the legal problems were ironed out.

Mrs. McGrew said the women talked her into going to her bank and drawing out her savings so they could all share in the find. Mrs. McGrew said she went to the bank and tried to withdraw $5,000 in cash, but a teller gave her $500 in cash and a check for $4,500 because of bank policy.

Mrs. McGrew told officers the women then drove her to Euclid Avenue north of Transit Street to a building where the "attorney" supposedly had his office. She said one woman left them in the car and went into the building, returning a short time later to say that the attorney wanted to see each of them alone for a few minutes. Mrs. McGrew said she gave the women the money when she was told to go in to see the attorney. Mrs. McGrew left the two other women and went into the building to discover that no attorney had an office there. When she went back outside the two other women had left with her money and check.

Congressional cloud hovers over tax bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bill that would extend 1975 individual tax cuts into the new year is now in the hands of a committee that will prepare it for final delivery to President Ford, but there is little chance the measure will win Ford's approval.

The members of the conference committee that will work out the final form of the bill have wide latitude in saying how income taxes should be cut, but they have no authority to tie the six-month, tax-cut extension to a spending ceiling that Ford has demanded as the price for his approval.

Thus, whether the average worker will see an 8-per cent tax hike starting in January apparently hinges on whether House Democrats can hold together and muster the Republican votes needed to override the Ford veto nearly sure to come.

Failure to extend the tax cuts would cost a married man earning $15,000 a year and supporting a wife and two children an additional $4.73 a week in withholding, or about $250 more in income taxes for the year, according to the Internal Revenue Service. For a single person earning $15,000, the withholding would be increased by about $3 per week or $156 for the year.

The tax cut, enacted this year as an economy boosting measure, expires automatically on Dec. 31 unless extended by Congress.

The Senate indicated it will have no trouble overriding Ford when 17 Republicans joined 56 Democrats Monday night in passing the bill, 73 to 19. Only two Democrats sided with 17 Republicans against the measure. The margin was 11 more than would be needed to re-pass the bill over Ford's veto.

The House vote earlier this month was considerably closer, 257 to 168, but Democratic leaders have expressed confidence the two-thirds majority needed to override can be obtained.

The key test of Ford's influence on the tax issue came when the Senate voted 66 to 27 against a Republican effort to tie the tax reduction for 1976 to a ceiling on federal spending for 1977.

Some senators who consistently support Ford deserted him on that vote, agreeing with Democratic leaders that to set such a spending ceiling so early would be impractical and would represent abandonent of the newly enacted proceedures under which Congress gave itself an expanded role in developing the federal budget.

One Democrat, Sen. Walter D. Huddleston of Kentucky, said Ford's insistance on a spending ceiling for 1977 was pure politics to appease those conservatives who otherwise might favor Ronald Reagan over Ford in GOP primaries.

"It is degrading to the Senate to have to face such a political ploy to salvage a position taken by the President, who some months ago decided he was going to occupy himself with campaigning ...," Huddlestton said.

The bills passed by the House and Senate differ on how taxes would be cut but they agree that withholding rates affecting most paychecks should remain at the present level through next June 30.

The Senate bill would give slightly more help to the poor, to large families and to single persons than would the House version.

The Senate accepted an amendment by Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., that would continue for six months a special tax credit for persons who buy certain new homes. The vote was 47 to 44.

Extension of the plan means that anyone who buys a principle residence on which construction was begun or completed before March 26, 1975, would be allowed to subtract 5 per cent of the cost of the home, up to $2,000, from his federal tax bill.

Although the Senate bill would extend the tax cuts for only six months, it is virtually certain that a second six-month renewal will be approved next year. Otherwise, taxes would go up four months before the national elections.

In addition to the housing credit, here is how the Senate bill would continue the tax cuts enacted last March:

—Raise the minimum standard deduction, for taxpayers who do not itemize, to $1,800 for single persons and $2,200 for joint returns. The maximum standard deduction would go up to $2,500 and $2,900.

—Renew the "work bonus" program, which allows poor, working families with children to avoid taxation on 10 per cent of earned income up to $4,000 and a gradually decreasing percentage of income between $4,000 and $8,000. This provision actually results in federal payments to qualified working families that are too poor to pay taxes.

—Extend for six months a cut in the corporate tax rate, which is aimed especially at helping small business.

'Isn't easy'—judge sentences killer to electric chair

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y.(AP) — "This isn't easy on me and I don't suppose it's any easier on you," said Judge Howard Jones.

Then, with no choice, he sentenced Joseph Davis, a 38-year-old father of five, to death in the electric chair for his coviction of killing a Yonkers policeman during a supermarket holdup in that Westchester County city.

Davis was the first person sentenced under a 1974 state law that makes death the mandatory sentence for conviction of first-degree murder of a police officer or prison employe.

No one has been executed in the state since 1963.

After imposing sentence, the judge noted that Davis might have averted the sentence if he had come forth with the name of the person who masterminded the Sept. 17, 1974 holdup that left policeman Harold Woods, 32, dead.

"One of the real tragedies of this case is that the prime mover has still not been brought to justice," the judge said. "You held the key to your salvation and you didn't use it. It's a shame that you have to face the electric chair and he's still out there."

After sentencing, according to The New York Times, Jones said that "law enforcement people" knew the identity of a man who had driven the getaway car from the holdup in which Davis and another man, Stanley Perkins, allegedly were involved.

Perkins is currently serving a 25-year to life sentence.

Woods, who was not in uniform when he was shot, was on his way to work and had stopped at the market for a container of milk.

Davis maintains that at the time of the murder-holdup he was in New Orleans where he was arrested 11 days after the policeman's death.

The judge set Jan. 26, 1976 for the execution but the sentence carries with it an automatic appeal expected to take months. There also is further legal recourse extending all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court which has yet to pass on new capital punishment laws in New York and other states.

The Supreme Court in 1972 barred capital punishment on grounds that various state laws were too vague and applied unevenly. New York is among several states that have since amended their capital punishment statutes hoping to secure approval from the Supreme Court.

Davis Heller, the foreman of the jury that convicted Davis last month, has said: "It wouldn't bother me if his sentence were commuted to life with no parole. It wouldn't bother me if he gets the chair. He got a fair trial."

How income tax cut bill would affect you

WASHINGTON (AP) — The following tables show the potential impact of two tax cut bills: one passed by the House, the other approved Monday night by the Senate.

The figures in the table are computed assuming typical deductable personal expenses of 17 per cent of income.

—The "Income" column refers to adjusted gross income.

—The "74 law" column refers to taxes due in April 1975 for each income group under the permanent 1974 tax law. If no tax legislation is enacted, taxes due in April 1977 would be at this rate.

—The "75 law" column indicates the amounts that will be due in April 1976 under the current Tax Reduction Act. Special tax credits for low-income groups and new home buyers are not included.

—The "76-House" column refers to the amount of taxes that would be due in April 1977 based on tax law changes approved in the House.

—The "76-Senate" column refers to the amount of taxes that would be due in April 1977 based on tax law changes approved in the Senate.

House and Senate conferees will produce a final congressional version.

Although the Senate plan is just for the first six months of 1976, and the House version covers all of 1976, figures below are on an annual basis for comparison purposes.

So whom can taxpayer turn to for advice?

WASHINGTON (AP) — People asking the Internal Revenue Service for help in filling out their tax returns are more likely to get bad advice than good advice, a Ralph Nader organization says.

In addition, the government will hold taxpayers responsible for making up any underpayments resulting from IRS errors, the organization told a House subcommittee on Monday.

The Nader group also said the taxpayer may get even worse advice by taking his taxes to a private outfit rather than getting IRS help.

After concluding an analysis based on the IRS' own surveys of the accuracy of both private and government tax advice, Louise Brown of Ralph Nader's Tax Reform Research Group said, "If these striking figures do not convince Congress that something is wrong with our federal income tax law, nothing ever will."

The inaccuracy of the IRS tax advice is the fault of Congress, Charles Davenport of the Congressional Budget Office told a House subcommittee Monday.

"Given the complexity of our federal income tax laws, I would think nothing but errors could be expected," said Davenport, who spent a year studying the Internal Revenue Service for the Administration Conference of the United States.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander also said the tax laws are too complex. Subcommittee Chairman Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., added, "It appears to be unanimous that the law is too complex."

Mrs. Brown presented her tabulations of an IRS survey of 374,000 returns covering tax year 1971. The survey showed that of the returns where the IRS provided assistance, 55 per cent contained errors. Considering only those returns where the taxpayers itemized their deductions, the error rate hit 74.3 per cent.

One of the reasons the witnesses and congressman fixed the blame on congressional tax legislators rather than the IRS was that even highly qualified professional return preparers such as certified public accountants and attorneys fared no better.

The certified public accountants had an error rate of 61.7 per cent over-all and 68 per cent on returns with itemized deductions. For attorneys the over-all error rate was 66.4 per cent and the itemized deduction returns error rate was 78 per cent. Storefront and similar commercial preparers had a 79 per cent error rate over-all and 85 per cent on returns with itemized deductions.

Demos take credit for recovery legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders say that despite deteriorating relations with President Ford the Congress pushed through more economic recovery legislation in 1975 than any session since the depression.

In statements for release today, Speaker Carl Albert and Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill said the Democratic - dominated Congress can take credit for such economic-relief measures as tax cuts, extended jobless benefits, public jobs programs and help for the housing industry.

Albert said the hopes of last January for a close congressional White House relationship have proved fruitless, however, and he said "constructive cooperation with the Democratic Congress in an effort to solve the problems of the American people in a time of crisis has all but been abandoned."

O'Neill said Congress so far this year "has accomplished more for economic recovery than any session since the New Deal."

"The big difference is that in the New Deal days, the president initiated the programs," O'Neill said. "This year, an assertive Congress took the initiative on behalf of the people, usually in the face of blind opposition and obstruction by the White House."

He said to have gone along with the Ford economic philosophy "would have been economic disaster: sky-high gasoline and fuel prices, hundreds of thousands more out of work, depression instead of recession."

The politics of the upcoming presidential elections permeated the assessments of the Congressional performance and the rhetoric of leaders.

"The time has come to discard the negative economic policies of a Republican administration and once again unleash the mammoth productive capacity of the greatest industrial nation in the world," Albert said.

"A Republican administration which does not move vigorously to put eight million unemployed back to work is not utilizing America's resources to the fullest. Too often this administration has turned its back on the needy, the ailing and those without jobs," he said.

He then called upon the country to elect a Democratic president to work in harmony with a Democrat - controlled Congress.

"Until then, the country will continue to reap the discomforts, the uneasiness and the stalemates of divided government," he said. "With a united party leadership, president and Congress, we can get this country moving again."

O'Neill said the congressional actions which turned the economy around included the $22.8 billion tax cut, the jobs bill, housing legislation, improved jobless benefits, the 8 per cent Social Security benefits increase and help for New York.

"All were either totally opposed or fought at some stage by the administration," O'Neill said.

Sunny, cold and windy

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Southern California weather through midweek will feature sunny days and cold, clear nights with strong winds blowing in most areas.

The National Weather Service said the high in downtown Los Angeles, which reached 70 degrees Monday, will be in the low 70s.

Elsewhere, highs will be in the mid 70s along the coast and in inland valleys, in the upper 40s and 50s in the mountains and in the 50s and 60s in the deserts.

Overnight lows will range from the upper 30s to low 40s at the beaches to the 20s and low 30s in the mountains.

Wind gusts of up to 60 miles per hour raked parts of Southern California Monday, whipping up dust and sand and reducing visibility to near zero on several highways.

California Highway Patrol officials said four persons suffered minor injuries in a collision of four vehicles, including a state prison conservation camp bus, just north of Banning in the San Gorgonio Pass, which was closed for about two hours by blowing winds and sand.

Chilly night temperatures forced citrus growers in the Riverside and San Bernardino areas to turn on wind machines and orchard heaters to protect their crops from frost.

School fire damage $75,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A fire at Manual Arts High School has caused an estimated $75,000 damage and forced the evacuation of students.

City fire officials said three teachers and a student suffered smoke inhalation Monday in the blaze, which caused extensive damage to a first floor classroom. All were treated at the scene.

Fire department spokesman Dave Fuller said the blaze sent thick smoke boiling through the building, making evacuation of students difficult.

Fuller said the fire was confined to the one room, which was used as a study hall.

Christmas Seal court keeps busy

Two local young women have discovered that being a princess can be a lot of hard work.

Gabrielle Rampick of San Dimas and Robin Brooks of Claremont are two of the seven Christmas Seal Princesses in the court of the Christmas Seal Queen Christina Velasco of Baldwin Park.

Other princesses in this year's court are Terry Lynn Harman, Azusa, Laura Lee Ireland, Covina, Ann Marie Eggers, La Puente, Valerie Tittle, Temple City, and Mary Anne Tasnady, West Covina.

Gabrielle and Robin have been involved in numerous programs to bring the message of the Christmas Seal campaign of the Lung Association of Los Angeles County before the public. The two rode on the float of the organization in the recent Pomona Christmas parade and in other area parades.

The princesses also keep busy schedules, appearing on television programs, at club meetings and before civic organizations.

The annual drive has a goal this year of $1,450,000 to fight emphysema, tuberculosis, other lung diseases, smoking and air pollution through patients services, medical education and research.

Other programs of the Lung Association supported by the Christmas Seal Campaign include lung disease screening and a program for asthmatic children.

Pediatrician to give talk

Dr. Gisella Dalrymple, a pediatrician, will be the speaker at an open meeting Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the San Gabriel Valley Regional Center for the Developmentally Disabled, 250 E. Harrison Ave., Pomona, on the Casa Colina Hospital grounds.

Dr. Dalrymple has done graduate work and has a special interest in clinical genetics and developmental disabilities at UC Irvine. She is medical director of the regional center.

The meeting is cosponsored by the Adult Education Department of the Pomona Unified School District and the Children's Developmental Services Department of Casa Colina.

The moderator will be Shirley Acosta, adult education instructor.

What's going on around here

NATIVITY SCENE — Grace Baptist Church and the City of Glendora will present the third annual "Live Nativity" scene from Friday through Dec. 25 between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. daily.

The location will be the City Hall beneath the lighted Christmas tree.

There will be live animals which the children may feed with food supplied free to them. These will be sheep, goats, a donkey, a cow and a horse.

Christmas music will be featured and church members in costumes will stimulate the actual personage's present at the original Nativity.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM — Central Baptist Church with its 85-voice choir will present the program, "King of Kings", Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7 p.m. in the church auditorium.

CAMERA CLUB — The Pomona Valley Camera Club will hold its annual Christmas party Thursday 7:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church in Pomona.

Members are urged to bring four slides to depict what Christmas means to them. Door prizes will be offered by the club.

NO CHRISTMAS TREES — Forest Supervisor Doug MacWilliams reminded visitors that "the cutting and removal of Christmas trees from the San Bernardino National Forest lands is prohibited."

The practice of issuing permits for trees was discontinued many years ago. The demand resulting from increased population, coupled with the constant battle to control smog and insect damage to maintain healthy timber, far exceeds the supply.

Persons caught cutting trees will be prosecuted and if convicted are subjecg to a maximum penalty of $500 and/or six months in jail.

SPEECH MAKERS — After seven weeks of study and practice, 14 area residents will be graduating from the Toastmaster Speechcraft program. The graduation will be held on Wednesday at Di Censo's Restaurant.

The program will be presented by members of the graduating class. One member will serve as toastmaster, one as table topics master, four as speakers and others will serve as grammarian, timer, and "ah" counter.

New officers of Club 1506 will also be installed. They are Stephan Douglas of Ontario, president; Gordon Adams, Ontario, as educational vice president; Charle McLauchlin, Ontario, as administrative vice president; Rich Brosch, Alta Loma, as sergeant-at-arms, and Vance Mingus, Pomona, as secretary.

TROUT DRBY — The Cucamonga-Guasti Regional Park in Ontario is holding the second of four trout derbies through Dec. 23.

The park plans to stock over 2,000 pounds of trout for this event. Prizes will be awarded to both adults, (16 and over) and for juniors (under 16) in the following categories: Heaviest total of five trout, and heaviest single trout.

Fees for trout fishing are $2 for adults and $1 for juniors. Proceeds from the sale of trout tickets are used to purchase subsequent amounts of trout.

Along with trout fishing, the park offers catfishing, picnicking, a playground, paddle boating, and a snack bar.

CUB AWARDS — The following cub scouts received awards at a recent pack meeting held at Diamond Point School, Diamond Bar.

Wolf, John Ewing, Patrick Saunders and Mike Sharrow; Bear, Danny McMichael and Jesse Cano.

Webelos, Eric Resh, aquanant and outdoorsman; Barney Barnwell, aquanant; Lelang Long, outdoorsman; Greg Pardee, craftsman; Tom O'Grady, aquanant and foresters; Greg Mathews, Naturalist and outdoorsman; and Mark Sellers, scholar.

Receiving service stars were Jesses Cano, one year; Greg Mennen, two years; Greg Pardee, three years; Tim O'Grady, two years; Greg Mathews, two years, and Bob Hoot, two years.

These Webelos earned their overnighter awards: Mark Sellers, Greg Mathews, Lee Long, Eric Resh and Barney Barnwell. Greg Pardee graduated from Webelos.

Mitten So Big — A Christmas Tale by D. Floreck and D. Baur

Californians' tax tab said doubled

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The amount paid by Californians for state and local taxes has nearly doubled in six years, although the tax structure has remained about the same, the California Taxpayers Association said Monday.

The 1974-75 state and local taxes were estimated at $22.3 billion, compared with $11.6 billion in 1968-69.

The association estimated that Californians paid about $32 billion in federal taxes in 1974-75, pushing the total tax bill for the year to $54 billion.

"When the totals are in for next year, the increase may even be more dramatic," said Kirk West, executive vice president of the association.

"We then will have what appears to be substantial increases in property taxes and all of the state taxes will reflect inflationary growth."

The Move To Impeach Santa

CHAPTER SEVEN
By Robert J. Boyle

Evel Whone stood up shouting, "I object!"

Early the next morning, Juniperperper and Jinkersnipes arose before dawn to get ready for their first appearance before the UN.

They had a breakfast of sausage, pancakes, orange juice and toast.

"This is good but not as good as the breakfasts Mrs. Claus makes," Juniperperper said.

"Certainly not," replied Jinkersnipes. "She is the best cook in the world."

At 8 o'clock, the elves took a taxi to the UN building.

"Boy, it is big," Jinkersnipes said. "I could get lost in that."

U.B. Fruitful and D. Lightful Wynter were at the door to greet them.

"Welcome," they said. "We're just about ready to start."

The two were led into the General Assembly room.

"Wow, I'm scared," Juniperperper said.

"That makes two of us," Jinkersnipes replied.

The head of the UN, Dag Whood, called the meeting to order and began to read the charges against Santa.

"It is charged," he read, "that Santa Claus did with a foreknowledge commit the following offenses:

"One. He used eavesdropping methods to spy on boys and girls without due process.

"Two. He discriminated against other human beings by only employing elves to work for him.

"Three. He continued this discrimination by hiring only elves whose names begin with the letter J. I cite Jasper, Jinkersnipes, Juniperperper, James, John, Julia June, Juanita, Jocular and many many more.

"Four: He employed these elves and refused to pay them and kept them in bondage against their will.

"Five: He obstructed justice by determining without due process who the good and who the bad children were.

"Six: He made the elves live in dormitories and failed to provide them with separate rooms.

"Seven: He officiates at marriages between boy and girl elves without proper authority."

Evel Whone, from the Baadlands, stood up and said, "I will prosecute this case."

Juniperperper also stood and said, "I will defend Santa against these terrible and untrue charges. We're happy at the North Pole."

"Objection," said Evel Whone. "The defense is offering opinions."

Objections sustained," Dag Whood, ruled.

"Now are the defense and prosecution ready to begin?"

They both nodded.

The prosecution will be first," Dag Whood said. "Call your first witness."

Evel Whone called, "Will Herr Humbugg take the stand."

When the little mad elf was seated he was asked, "Did you apply for employment at the North Pole?"

"I did and Santa wouldn't hire me," he replied. "Just because my name began with an H instead of a J."

"I object, I object, I object," Juniperperper said. "He wasn't hired because he was a bad elf who put salt in lollipops, sugar in lemon tarts, tea in coffee and sand in snow."

"Overruled," Dag Whood said. "You'll have your turn to question the witness."

Evel Whone continued, "Do you know as a fact that Santa did spy on boys and girls?"

Juniperperper jumped up, "Objection, he is leading the witness."

"Objection sustained," ruled Dag Whood. "Rephrase the question."

"How did Santa check on boys and girls?" Evel Whone said.

"He looked at them through his superscopes," Herr Humbugg replied.

"And how did he determine which boys and girls got toys at Christmas?" Evel Whone asked.

"He decided," Herr Humbugg replied.

"Did he consult with anyone else, or did he have any type of trial to determine who was good or bad?" asked Evel Whone.

"No," Herr Humbugg said.

"No more questions," Evel Whone said.

Juniperperper stood up and said, "Well I have some questions."

He walked to the stand and said to Herr Humbugg, "Did you put salt in lollipops, sugar in lemon tarts, tea in coffee and sand in snow?"

"Well, I, ah, ah, well I," Herr Humbugg said.

"Please answer yes or no," Juniperperper said.

"Yes, but that was when I was in the Magic Forest and I was younger," Herr Humbugg replied.

"Santa doesn't employ elves who were bad," Juniperperper said. "Now, last year didn't you use 21 bad words?"

"Ah, well, I, yes," Herr Humbugg replied.

Evel Whone stood up shouting, "I object. I object. The only way Santa would know that Herr Humbugg said bad words would be by using illegal spying equipment."

"Your honor," Juniperperper replied. "Santa is exempt from restrictions because he must know which boys and girls are good and bad. How else would he be able to tell who deserves toys at Christmas and who deserves coal or potato peels. Santa has to check."

"Objection overruled," Dag Whood said. "Certainly we all must realize that only through the superscopes can Santa check on boys and girls."

Juniperperper continued to question Herr Humbugg.

"Now, tell me Herr," he said. "When you applied for work at the North Pole, didn't you volunteer to change your name to Jerr Junebug because you thought that Santa only employed elves whose names begin with the letter J?"

"Ah, well, yes?" Herr Humbugg replied.

"But tell me one person at the North Pole whose name doesn't begin with J?"

Juniperperper laughed and said, "Sure, Santa Claus and Mrs. Santa Claus, and Sunny Sunfish, at the Lunch Whistle Bird and Malox the mailman."

"Ah, well," Herr Humbugg said.

"No more questions," Juniperperper said. "But I reserve the right to recall this elf."

Juniperperper walked back to the defense table and Jinkersnipes said to him, "You sure beat him to his own game."

NEW GRISWOLD PLAZA — Ground will be broken in January for an $850,000 three-story garden office building for Griswold's at the western end of that firm's Foothill Boulevard, Claremont, frontage. More than 80 per cent of the outside walls will have floor-to-ceiling bronzed glass. Pre-leasing arrangements are being handled by George Robins.

New office building planned

Griswold's has announced plans to build an $850,000 three-story garden office building in its Claremont complex.

President A. L. Sanford reported that the building will complete the development of the three-block-long Foothill Boulevard frontage extending west from Indian Hill Boulevard.

The complex now includes Griswold's Inn, a 188-room hotel and convention center and Griswold's Old School House (GOSH).

The old school house is the former Claremont High School which was renovated and now boasts two restaurants, several art studios and gallery, a legitimate theatre, and 35 speciality shops.

Architects Herbert Nadel and Associates of Encino have carried out the Mediterranean architectural theme of the existing buildings and still provide more than 80 per cent of the outside walls with floor-to-ceiling bronzed glass.

Total leasable area will be 24,000 square feet.

The contractor, Keller & Grant Inc. of El Monte, will begin construction in January 1976 with completion targeted in mid-summer.

Pre-leasing is underway through George Robins, real estate.

United Crusade drive

Valley still leads

The valley area of the United Crusade drive still leads all others in the region, with 79 per cent of its goal reached.

Charles McDaniel, chairman of the East Zone of Region II, United Crusade of Los Angeles County, reported that $210,077 of the zone's quota of $266,781 has been attained.

Standings for other zones in the region, as of this week, are: west zone, Pasadena area, 67 per cent; west central zone, Alhambra area, 74 per cent; and east central zone, Covina and West Covina, 58 per cent of goal.

McDaniel credited much of the success in the valley campaign to two executives who were "loaned" to the campaign by their companies for 90 days, ending Dec. 19, to help organize business and industrial donor programs.

Carlos H. Serna of Diamond Bar, quality control inspector for Southern California Gas Co., and Hugh Crombie of Claremont, assistant vice president and manager of the Pomona office of Wells Fargo Bank, have spent the fall months donating their talents to the success of the 1976 United Crusade drive.

The men work with company-appointed campaign chairmen to assist with presentation of films, to speak and to coordinate bookwork.

McDaniel said the two executives have generated an increase of $15,000 in new or expanded accounts in the Commerce and Industry division.

Region II of the crusade has reached 68 per cent of its quota with $2,505,166 reported collected or pledged, added McDaniel. The Los Angeles County goal is $29.1 million.

While the campaign is entering its final days, McDaniel said the need for continued support is important if the program is to continue to meet the requirement of the many services for youths, adults and senior citizens provided by the numerous member agencies.

The United Crusade of Los Angeles County allocates funds to 250 agencies and 12 Red Cross chapters to help in their many programs of assistance in the community.

Library fine reaches court

Library fines are not the usual material for courtroom drama, but the Small Claims Court in Pomona was the scene recently when a library patron was ordered to pay the Pomona Public Library $500 — the maximum settlement allowable.

Brad Simon, librarian, said the library had been frustrated for almost six months in seeking return of some $600 in library books and materials checked out by a minor.

Border patrol solves puzzle

FALLBROOK (AP) — The U.S. Border Patrol was mystified.

The illegal aliens were rounded up and put in a van that can be opened only from the outside. But, time and again, the prisoners were gone when patrolmen returned with more.

Two patrolmen pretending to be illegal aliens hid inside the van and waited.

The door opened slowly. Outside, they said they found and arrested Victor Manuel Reyes-Toscano, 21, for giving prisoners a helping hand. He was jailed in San Diego where a U.S. magistrate ordered Reyes-Toscano held Thursday in lieu of $1,500 bail.

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Road Commissioner of the County of Los Angeles, in Room 180, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033, until 9:30 a.m. on December 23, 1975; and then will be publicly opened and read in Room 193 at the above address for the construction of curb, gutter, base and pavement, fence work, drainage structures, removals, earthwork, and other incidental and appurtenant work estimated to cost less than $325,000 all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans, Specifications, Notices and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are on file and open for inspection at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The Engineer may, from time to time and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided, however, that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.08 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

Pomona acts to speed up renewal projects

Too many independent groups slowing down review process

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

After many months of review Pomona City Council Monday night took its first steps toward streamlining the redevelopment process in the city.

By a 4-1 vote the council adopted the recommendations of Councilman Charles Bader, creating a redevelopment steering committee to guide proposed projects through the process.

The steering committee would be composed of members of the council, Redevelopment Commission and city staff, and act primarily as a communication liaison to speed up review of redevelopment projects.

In the past, said Bader, the council, commission and staff, plus such interested groups as the Pomona Chamber of Commerce or Central Business District, would raise their questions about a project independently, causing the developer to repeatedly modify his project as new objections arose.

Some developers simply gave up in frustration as a result, he said.

Bader's concept of the steering committee is that its members would be responsible for raising all the major questions or objections of the council, commission or other parties at an early date, allowing the developer change his project as needed only a minimum of times and move it quickly to approval.

The vote to give Bader's proposal a six-month trial period was somewhat of a surprise, since Bader had first discussed the concept over a month ago and received little support at that time.

Councilman Adrian Wright cast the lone dissenting vote against Bader's proposal.

The council directed City Administrator Jerrold Gonce to prepare detailed plans for implementation of the steering committee concept.

By their action Monday, the council indicated a desire to reappoint the present members of the city's Redevelopment Commission, who have been critical of the council's long wait in taking action to overhaul the redevelopment process.

During the redevelopment discussions, council members repeatedly stated the need to hire an experienced professional in the redevelopment field to guide the city's redevelopment process and attract potential developers to the city.

Gonce said he hoped a list of possible candidates for the job would be ready for council review by mid-January.

In other action, the council approved the Police Department's application for third-year funding of its special Burglary Task Force grant, which will require the city's contribution of an extra $21,000 this year to cover the costs helicopter operations no longer included in the state grant.

Lt. Vern of Weigand reviewed the task force operation with the council.

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa noted that burglaries during 1975 have increased at only an eight per cent rate, compared to a 16 per cent rate in 1974.

The council also approved the Police Department's application for a planning and research grant, which allows the department, said Weigand, to more effectively plan the deployment of department personnel.

LATIN GUEST

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

James Benson, center, of Palomares Junior High School, works with Gary Galanti, 3½, left, and Raymond Frausto, 4, in preparation for a Christmas program to be presented Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Palomares Park Community Center in Pomona. Children from preschool to junior high school age will take part in the program under the direction of Benson.

Montclair ups size

Bedroom community votes for even bigger bedrooms

The Montclair City Council approved a 33 per cent increase Monday in the minimum size for all bedrooms, living rooms and dens in future single family structures within the city limits.

Mike Loehr, community development director, recommended that the minimum be changed from the present 90 square feet to 105 square feet to "provide a more usable living area."

The 105 square feet minimum was a change from the original staff suggestion of 120 square feet.

Councilman Nelson Gentry pointed out that an increasing number of persons are utilizing bedrooms and dens in their homes as office space. In this case, the homeowner-businessman would not necessarily need 105 square feet, he said, and that person should not be restricted from building a smaller room.

Mayor Harold Hayes commented that the ordinance should be uniform and the council cannot address the different uses of the room. He said the next tenant may use the bedroom for its original purpose, not an office, and should not suffer the tightness of less space.

Councilmen Ernest Rowley and Tom McClure both considered 120 square feet more adequate as the minimum size. Responding to Gentry's comments about a nursery or small room for children, Rowley quipped "Small children have a habit of growing up. With furniture in the room, the space is even more limited. A bedroom oftentimes serves as a study area also."

McClure moved that the ordinance be amended to establish the minimum size at 120 square feet and Rowley seconded the motion.

The motion passed on a 4-1 vote with Gentry dissenting.

In other action, the council:

— Approved a resolution which allows the county to administer subsidized housing under the Community Development Act in the city.

— Appropriated $2,500 for San Bernardino Associated Governments' conversion of radio equipment and purchase of rain gear in preparation for possible flooding in the Mt. Baldy area due to the loss of the watershed.

— Acknowledged an announcement from Gentry that he will withdraw from the 35th congressional race in order to devote more time to his family and law practice.

— Adjourned the meeting in memory of former Planning Commissioner James C. Hoglen who died Monday afternoon.

Bonita school bus bumps car

A school bus carrying 59 Bonita High School students backed into a car at Avenida Loma Vista and Avenida Monte Vista, Pomona area, Monday morning. No one was hurt.

The bus driver, Robin Marie Popham, 21, of 11725 S. Ramona Ave., Chino, told highway patrol officers she did not see the car behind her as the started backing.

The driver of the car, Marlene E. Colantuono, 32, of 1328 Paseo Fortuno, San Dimas, said she had brought her vehicle to a stop by the time the bus collided with it.

Bertschinger enters Chino mayor race

Robert Bertschinger, announcing his fourth try for public office in Chino, said Monday he will oppose incumbent Bob McLeod for mayor in the March 2 election.

Bertschinger, 45, operates a television repair shop out of his home at 13121 Third St. He made unsuccessful tries for a City Council seat in 1972 and 1974 and ran for the Chino school board in 1973.

In taking out nomination papers for the mayor's post, Bertschinger said, "I feel it's time for a change. The present mayor is getting a bit stale.

"I can provide better leadership than has been the case, and also can do better regarding ability to get along with the council."

McLeod, who has served as mayor for 10 years, took out nomination papers for the post last week.

Bertschinger, who was born and raised in Chino, says he knows the town "inside and out." He is currently serving as president of the Inland Empire Bookeeping Association and is a former member of the city's Parks Committee. He also is president of Chino High's Sports Boosters Club and a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

A barrio resident, Bertschinger said he feels he has a "good understanding of social problems in the community."

However, he stated that he is a "law and order man. I'm not sympathetic towards the gangs at all. I also realize you must work with youths in the area."

"This gang thing has to be cleared up," added Bertschinger. "And McLeod has been completely ineffective in getting together with members of the community."

Farewell set for retiring Boys Republic leader

Frank W. Graves, director of Boys Republic for the past 22 years, will be honored at a retirement reception Thursday night at 8 at Griswold's in Claremont.

The staff and friends of Boys Republic, the school-farm community for troubled boys in Chino, will host the affair on the eve of Graves' retirement. It is open to the public.

Graves worked for the Los Angeles city schools as teacher, counselor and district supervisor of attendance prior to joining the Boys Republic staff in 1947 as program director. He was promoted to managing director in February 1953.

The 62-year-old director graduated from Stanford University with a bachelor degree and earned master's degrees from USC and Claremont Graduate School. He helped found the California Association of Children's Residential Centers and the California Association of Executives of Children's Institutions, and served a term as president of the latter group.

His record at Boys Republic drew praise from his associates.

"Boys Republic has maintained a spirit of innovation in responding to the changing needs of society," said Max Scott, assistant director who will succeed Graves as head administrator. "The individual student has always been his primary concern and every aspect of the program reflects that concern. The worth of the program has always been weighed against the benefit to the student."

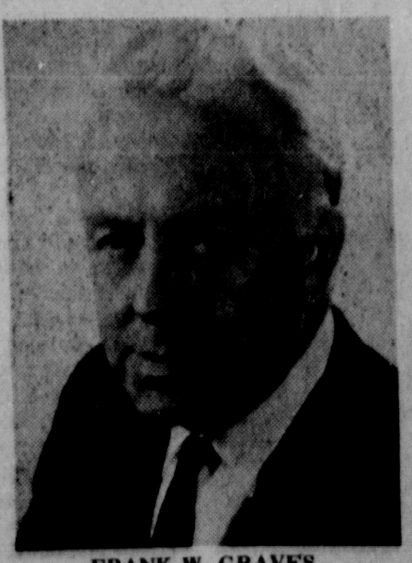

Scott reported that Graves "fought to hold the line on escalating costs of care by developing independent sources of income." The most notable of these independent sources is the Della Robbia wreath sales which have grown from a local hobby to an international operation.

With the exception of four cottages, the buildings at the 215-acre farm have been constructed during Graves' administration. All building programs have been financed through donations and private contributions. Capital expenses have not been included in the cost of care.

During Graves' administration, Boys Republic established the off-campus residences in Pomona, Silverlake and Santa Ana, and began Project Upstream. The project is a joint venture with Pomona Unified School District in curbing juvenile delinquency among elementary and junior high school students and dealing with emotional problems among youth.

Graves also extended his job dedication into his personal life, opening his home as a residence for a score of troubled boys. Finally, in 1974 the foundation was laid for the present Boys Republic development plan, aimed at raising the funds needed for growth in the coming decades.

Graves plans to devote retirement to relaxing and traveling with his wife, Marianne. He has three sons, Steve and Brian of Corona del Mar and Chris Hollister of Seattle, Wash.; and three daughters, Mrs. Sue Snyder of Oxnard, Jill of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and Mrs. Judy Chilcutt of Portland, Ore.

Impossible to lick inflation

A bevy of presidential candidates promise that if elected they will bring inflation under control. Mark them down as charlatans.

No expert has the answer. The better economists admit ignorance — though they all have suggestions.

The men who worked in price controls in World War II and in the early 1970s say this much-touted remedy didn't work — and that it couldn't have been made to work except by transforming this country into a controlled economic society of the type now hamstringing Russian agriculture and manufacturing.

Today, economic planning, whether by the government or by private producers, is foggy; we lack the accurate information needed to make proper decisions.

We pride ourselves on our advances in gathering domestic economic statistics. And make wide use of computers in the process. But what's fed into these mathematical adding machines is incomplete, too often inaccurate, and frequently irrelevant.

This is but a tip of the problem. The U.S. economy today is so heavily dependent on foreign production successes and failures, foreign politico-economic price fixing, on foreign weather we do not completely monitor and on foreign economic statistics, some secret and some of exceedingly poor quality, that even superlative domestic statistics would provide no solution.

American producers now must rely so heavily on foreign sources for so many of our raw materials, and in such quantity, and we are so dependent on exports of U.S. goods for so much of our prosperity, that the accumulation of complete and reliable statistics and politico-economic data worldwide is now crucial to our welfare.

Item — Obviously, politico-economic decisions by the oil cartel countries can boost inflation in the U.S. unconscionably, yet our politico-economic intelligence on these countries is close to rock bottom.

Item — Some nations do not have the will to gather statistics, seeing no need. Some do not have the technical expertise. Others, for domestic political reasons, keep most statistics secret and may doctor what they do publish. Though crop failures in Russia or China can boost U.S. food prices, our estimates of Soviet grain output are frequently off by 20 per cent and our information on Chinese production equally erroneous, at least until it is too late to matter.

These problems will increase as we become progressively more dependent on foreign markets, foreign raw materials and foreign finished and semi-finished goods.

More lands will find ways to increase the price of those products we depend on, and to favor domestic producers of those goods we export.

All of the above suggests a new direction in U.S. foreign aid — the subsidizing of a major effort in each country we assist to improve and expand the gathering of those statistics they and we require for improving private and government economic planning.

Domestically, those men I know who have worked in price controls report the solving of production bottlenecks through government or private means did far more than controls in dampening inflation. In some cases this meant opening land to agricultural production. In others it meant increasing imports of scarce items. In still others it meant financial or technical help for crucial industries.

Implementing the above suggestions will take years.

Don't believe anyone who tells you he can lick inflation today.

Public manipulated

Dear Editor:

When the detriments of inflation, disparity, greed, lawlessness and indigence permissively become pervasive, it also becomes evident that the basic institutions of our republic have similarly become perverted, compromised or corrupted.

The rapid rises in consumer costs which must result from such irresponsibly imposed detriments, accurately reflect the degree to which the public has been "manipulated" into condoning the greedy practices we should have been schooled to logically identify as immoral, inequitable and disrespectful.

Wherein such costly detriments continue to grow, responsible citizens must recognize — that the public interest is being faithlessly ignored by our elective officials, that public trust is being violated by profiteers and by greedy tax-exempt special-interest organizations, and that the "unorganized and unrepresented" majority is being unduly deprived of equal-access to earn a fair and equitable share of the fruits of free enterprise productivity.

Although all "businesses" are entitled to competitively earn a fair and equitable profit, and "organized workers" are entitled to earn just remuneration for useful services performed . . . . yet the generation of profit by the free enterprise sector must be administered to also accommodate the legitimate interest of all components of our economy through equal-access for all to earn a fair and equitable share.

Without equality-of-access to defend their own interest or to earn a fair share of the "wealth" created by free enterprise productivity, the "unorganized and unrepresented" 85%-majority of our consumers can neither . . . . continue to pay for the products of business-&-industry, continue to permissively provide wage-advantage of fringe-benefits for greedy special-interests, nor continue to finance the escalating tax-costs of a super-bloated bureaucracy.

The public-in-general must now demand of those we elect to defend the public interest, and of our educational media, that they responsibly explain why inflationary practices are "permitted" to continue to irresponsibly impose additional disparity upon the "defenseless" consumers.

In the "Campaigns of 1976" we are again confronted by massive "Taxation without Representation," wherein the majority is artfully whip-sawed between the disparate costs of greed and the oppressive tax-costs of political malfeasance. If candidates for public office could now be forced to publicly state their real positions and to publicly debate these actual issues, the majority of voters could then logically decide for themselves the right answers. — Sherrill Johnson, Pomona

Criticizes Anderson

Dear Editor:

In Jack Anderson's column published in the Progress Bulletin on Dec. 4 he wrote that his predecessor, Drew Pearson, "took on the whole snake pit of red-hunting demagogues."

I wonder how a seemingly conservative newspaper could print such a thing. Jack Anderson makes it sound as though communism is okay. Don't you think it about time we have some serious thoughts about what the communists are preparing for this country instead of printing such a thing about people who love liberty and freedom this country is supposed to offer. How can can that offer last if communism takes us over? — Mary Runyan, Upland

Basic skills retained

Dear Editor:

Apparently the recent article in the Progress Bulletin (11/23/75) reporting the State Mandated Assessment Program in the Pomona Unified School District was misinterpreted by some readers. I would like to correct some mistaken assumptions and conclusions.

First, I want to assure your readers that there is no plan to change the current heavy emphasis on basic skills. In fact, there has been a steady increase in emphasis upon the basic skills and I expect that to continue.

Neither the Board nor the Superintendent nor the District Curriculum Council has suggested to me that there be any change in instructional emphasis. No one has directed me to replace basic skills instruction nor have I issued any instructions to that effect.

It is very clear that many students are not achieving the desired levels of proficiency in reading, writing and mathematics. Our intent is to continue to seek more effective ways of improving performance in those areas.

Second, since the misinterpretations apparently arose from comments concerning the inadequacy of the state testing program and the need to supplement this, I want to explain that we would very much like to measure student progress in the subjects mentioned in the recent article in addition to not instead of the present testing in basic skills. All of those subjects mentioned are state required areas of instruction and, along with fundamental skills, have been included in our educational goals for many years.

I appreciate the interest in education shown by your readers from time to time in this column and hope I have reassured those who thought we might have lost our perspective. — Ray L. Thomas Asst. Supt. -Educ. Serv.

Reminded of WPA

Dear Editor:

I had a section of sidewalk replaced in front of my house several months ago and it took nine men who came and left each in his own truck.

One brought a sawhorse and blinker light. Another brought 2x4's, another measured the area and left. The the gang boss came and looked, then left. Finally, one old city truck with one young worker and jackhammer equipment showed up.

He dug out the old cement. Another dump truck and two men showed up and threw pieces into their truck. The job boss again showed up, took a look and they all left. It was lunch time.

One hour later another truck came. Sand and gravel was left. Then the old truck came back with a mixer and two men. On and on the traffic of city units traveled to my job.

Three days it took to complete this approximately four foot square section. I figured that this job ate up a whole year of my city taxes. It actually reminded me of the the WPA days in the 1930's and of my World War II experience in the Army Engineer Corps. — R.G.B., Pomona

O'Neill's Speaker fund

WASHINGTON — House Democratic leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, the burly, big-hearted Bostonian, has raised more than $150,000 in the past two years supposedly to elect Democrats to the House.

But the pattern of his payments suggests that he is really trying to buy support for his anticipated run for Speaker.

With suspicious charity, he has handed out $500 contributions to colleagues who have no serious opposition and, therefore, no need for campaign cash. But they are powers in the House who could influence the election of the next Speaker.

O'Neill collected $76,024.96 in 1974 at a quiet fund-raising dinner. Last week, he arranged another $1,000-a-plate soiree, with early returns of over $73,000.

We got wind of O'Neill's posh fundraiser last week and sent a reporter to count the fatcats. But our reporter, Marc Smolonsky, was barred from the party.

Apparently, O'Neill got nervous about our inquiries and rushed out a press statement belatedly revealing that the unannounced fundraiser had been held. The statement boasted that he was "willingly" disclosing the contributions "more than a month before the required reporting date."

The statement went on to explain that O'Neill had distributed campaign funds to "more than 85" Democratic candidates for Congress in 1974, "many of them in marginal districts."

Our own investigation, however, presents a different picture:

— O'Neill doled out five times more money to Congressmen who were likely to be reelected than to challengers whose chances were more risky. This would indicate he was more interested in buttering up old colleagues than in electing new ones.

— O'Neill gave $500 a piece, for example, to at least eight Congressmen who had no opposition at all. They were Joe Addabbo, D-N.Y., James Burke, D-Mass., Richard Fulton, D-Tenn., Mike Harrington, D-Mass., Ed Jones, D-Tenn., Bill Lehman, D-Fla., Charles Rose, D-N.C., and Bob Sikes, D-Fla.

— Contrary to O'Neill's claim that he helped candidates in marginal districts, 67 of those who received money from him were reelected by two-to-one margins. The biggest winners were Jim Delaney, D-N.Y., who won 93 per cent of the vote; John Breaux, D-La., 89 per cent; Morgan Murphy, D-Ill., 88 per cent; Steve Solarz, D-N.Y., and Joe Gaydos, D-Pa., both 82 per cent; Sam Stratton, D-N.Y., 81 per cent; Torbert Macdonald, D-Mass., and Dominick Daniels, D-N.J., both 80 per cent.

— Of the 75 Democrats who won their first election to the House last year, O'Neill offered money to only 25. Colorado is a typical example. He delivered $500 to Rep. Frank Evans, who won handily with 68 per cent of the vote. But O'Neill didn't offer a penny to Rep. Tim Wirth who squeaked out a narrow two per cent victory over his well financed Republican rival, Ex-Rep. Don Brotzman.

Favors are part of a politician's stock in trade. Likeable, loquacious "Tip" O'Neill, clearly has been passing out financial favors to those who will be able to help him when Speaker Carl Albert steps down.

Footnote: O'Neill contends that he has merely "followed the tradition" of past majority leaders who raised "money for the benefit of Democratic congressional candidates." He is a deputy chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee. But instead of delivering the money he has collected to the committee to distribute, O'Neill carefully parcels out contributions to the Congressmen who can do him the most good.

COOKED GOOSE: We recently reported that Northrop Corporation, the nation's 13th largest defense contractor, had been staging goose hunts for the military brass on Maryland's scenic eastern shore.

Now it looks as if Northrop has been giving us a goose chase. Spokesmen assured us that the company had merely provided good hunting, a little booze and inexpensive pass-the-plate suppers.

We have now obtained access to Northrop's expense logs. These show the company spent thousands of dollars renting lodges, leasing shooting rights, fixing goose blinds and wining-dining military guests. The same guests often played a role in awarding defense contracts.

On a sample weekend for example, Northrop spent $1,821.36 to entertain its guest hunters. This was the bill for "entertainment" alone for the November 1-3, 1973 weekend.

Until the early 1970s, Northrop housed the hunters at public hotels. But the guests began to get nervous that they might be spotted. This was the reason the company began leasing lodges where more privacy could be assured.

Footnote: A Northrop spokesman declined to answer specific questions but said "these matters" have been investigated thoroughly. He added that the company is working closely with appropriate government agencies to resolve the issues raised.

Just in jest

The poor dears! It's no wonder they can never find the time to relax. Goodness knows, after they finish getting their dinner plates so shiny bright that the neighbors can see themselves in them, there's really no time left in a 24 hour day to do much more than have a friendly chat with the little man who sails around in a boat in all the better toilet tanks.

Age retirement being contested

Another victim of "job discrimination" is the able employe who is prematurely forced to retire. There is notning "constitutional" about forcing a perfectly capable worker out of his job just because of the number of candles on his birthday cake.

Courts do not yet recognize this important human right — but they will. Hemingway said, "The filthiest word in our language is "retirement.' "

Right now a new civil rights effort is under way in the courts, Congress and the legislatures to abolish the accepted practice of forcing workers to retire at any specific age.

Who's fighting it? Businesses and unions. Here's why.

Employers these days are under the government gun to hire more women and minorities whether they're capable or not. Employers say they cannot make room for enough women and minorities in time to meet government deadlines unless they hurry other workers into retirement.

The unions argue that pension plans must be predicated on a predictable number of workers retiring at a fixed age. Therefore, both business and unions, although sympathetic to the elderly who want to work usually support mandatory retirement.

Up to now the courts, Congress and state legislatures have supported mandatory retirement. But a test case is on its way to the Supreme Court which could change that.

Robert Murgia, the highest ranking uniformed member of the Massachusetts State Police, highly proficient at handling difficult and dangerous assignments, tested and proved physically and mentally able, was forced into retirement because state law says age 51 is too old for duty.

So now he's working as a private guard in a computer factory in Boston.

He calls it "age discrimination" and is seeking to overturn that state law. A three-judge federal panel in Boston has agreed with him that "any law which discriminates on the basis of age is unconstitutional."

The Supreme Court has promised to consider the state's appeal this fall. The American Medical Assn. is on record that mandatory retirement laws should be based on a person's competence, not on his age.

Dr. Irving Wright, president of the American Geriatrics Society, says that people who are unwillingly forced into retirement often begin to deteriorate physically, that "retirement can be hazardous to your health."

Cyril Brickfield, legal counsel for the American Assn. of Retired Persons, says, "There is no statutory age of senility. People don't age uniformly. Medicine knows this, society knows it, it's time the courts recognize it."

So now the decision is up to the highest court in the land, most members of which would by now be retired except that they don't have to.

Think on these things

My dear friend . . . it's that time of year again when I want to send you my annual greeting . . . and what have I done with your address? . . . and why do I wait and neglect to keep in touch . . . except for this time of year when it seems time moves faster than usual?

Taking into consideration how much cultivation other friendships need . . . ours is pretty miraculous and requires the smallest amount of attention . . . for I have yet to remember a time when we couldn't pick up where we left off . . . without missing a beat . . for time and space have no real part of true friendships . . and ours is certainly time tested, time proved, and timeless as Christmas itself!

Holiday plants often poisonous

DEAR DR. MILLER: I had a cat poisoned on mistletoe last year. Don't you think you should warn pet people about poisonous Christmas plants? — N. N.

DEAR N. N.: Absolutely. Potential plant pet poisoners range from such unlikelies as the Christmas Rose, a buttercup family member, to the Ponderosa Pine. More probable plant holiday hangers-on capable of spoiling a festive occasion include mistletoe and the also popular — and also poisonous — poinsettia. Such plants must obviously be kept out of reach, particularly of curious young animals (and certainly young Homo sapiens). Hanging mistletoe from a doorway would seem safe enough, but it isn't if berries or leaves eventually fall from it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've seen two neighbors lately who've cropped up with booties for their dogs. I'd get some for Ginger if I thought they were really practical. But what good are they? It certainly doesn't hurt a dog to get wet feet, does it? — V. R.

DEAR V. R.: While wet feet won't hurt canines, some (lap dogs in particular) will go to great lengths to try to keep their feet dry. Gadding about in galoshes can be practical for these, or for the canine who might encounter street chemicals or snow and ice. But, in general, most dog owners feel booties aren't worth the bother, and their canines concur.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What would cause a parakeet to suddenly become clumsy? It's not old age I know. Buzzard is only four. But all of a sudden he's having a lot of trouble flying. Every time he launches himself from the top of his cage, he flies a couple of feet and goes crashing to the floor. He's not giving up, but I hate to see him this way and don't see any improvement. Would you be able to explain this? — J. M.

DEAR J. M.: Buzzard had better be cage-confined at once, if he hasn't permanently grounded himself already. I'd be concerned that he may take a fatal nose (beak?) dive before the reason for his flight failures is determined. Internal hemorrhage, skull fractures, and broken necks are common complications of a single crash landing. If battered Buzzard's still about, an immediate checkup is indicated not only to try to determine the original cause of his ineptness, but to check out damage from his crashes.

Ann Landers

Thin legs cause of misery

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me. I am depressed and miserable. I don't want to see anybody or do anything. The problem is my legs. They are so thin they look like toothpicks. I feel as if I've been cursed.

Whenever I'm with my boyfriend and a woman with good-looking legs walks by, I want to kill her. I know this sounds extreme, but I'm being honest with you.

A girl who works in the same department with me has very heavy legs, but I'd trade mine for her's any day. When I told her this she said I was nuts. Am I?

Can anything be done to add weight toa person's legs? Would certain exercises help? Thanks for your advice, Ann. — Despondent

Dear D.: Very little can be done about legs that are too thin. Have you thought about pantsuits for both daytime and nighttime wear? (I'm assuming the rest of you is thin, also.)

If you are still depressed about your legs when you read this letter, I hope you will visit a rehabilitation institute or the wing of a hospital that cares for patients with spinal cord injuries. After you see a dozen people in wheelchairs (young and old) who would give anything in the world if they could walk again, you'll thank God for any pair of legs that can get you where you want to go.

Dear Annn Landers: I have this friend who drives me straight up the wall because she has a mouth that runs on a trolley. She is never short of wind and refuses to let anyone else say a word.

It's talk talk talk, blab blab, nonsense, trivia, gossip, ya ta ta ta. "Me. . . mine. . . I did this. . . I said that. . . I think . . . I bought. . . I saw." Honestly, Ann, I can't bear to listen to her insufferable yakking another minute. Whenever I'm with her for an hour I get a terrific headache.

How can I shut off the egomaniac without coming right out and telling her I don't want to listen to her any more? — Ready To Explode.

Dear Ready: Is the woman handcuffed to your wrist? Why must you be in her presence if she's such a bore? Part of the problem is YOU. The inability to cut loose from an irritating, problem-producing person means there's trouble on both sides. Look into it, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother is always entering a contest and she never wins anything. This has been going on for as long as I can remember.

Mom has spent a lot of time (and money) on her entries. They look great to me. Can it be that most of the contests are phony? If so, how do the big national brand companies get away with it?

We'd appreciate it if you'd look into this. — Too Many Disappointments.

Dear T.M.D.: Most well-advertised contests are on the level. Somebody wins. But too often the winners are "professionals" contest people who make a career of it. They know all the ropes.

Your mother should read the rules carefully before she invests any more time and money. Some contests are not valid in certain states. Moreover, your mom may not qualify on other grounds. The small print is frequently ignored by the eager beavers. I hope your letter alerts other consistent losers.

CIA can take cue from CWT

You're going to think I'm crazy, but the CIA, the FBI, and the IRS hold absolutely no fear for me whatsoever.

Beside the CWTs, they're as harmless as a cavity at an Osmond Brothers concert.

The CWT, for the newcomers to parenthood, stands for Creative Writing Teachers. There isn't a parent who does not dread and fear a meeting with them. Why?

The CWTs know everything . . . from what your kid did last summer (in 500 explicit words) to family relationships, economy, ancestry, and intimate details of heretofore unpublished home life.

The Show and Tell number was a breeze. When my children told Miss Glasgow that we threw all of our bills into the air and paid only the ones that fell into a crack in the floor, I shook my head and said, "Aren't children too much, Miss Glasgow? I do believe that little rascal is going to be a fiction writer, don't you?"

But when your children reach the age of 15 or so, you can no longer plead your own case. My son came home recently and announced, "I hope you don't mind, but I volunteered to write an essay on the problem of the heavy drinker in the home."

"So?" I asked.

"So, you and dad are in it."

"What do you mean dad and I are in it?"

"Well, the teacher asked how many kids had parents who were heavy drinkers and no one else raised his hand. I felt someone had to do it."

It is not my imagination that Creative Writing Teachers believe what their students write. I can remember one occasion where the teacher dropped my hand suddenly, ran across the hall and yelled, "Hey, Peggy, this is the one I was telling you about who toasted 'No Baby Month.' "

What this country does not need is another organization collecting secret (sometimes incriminating) information on the populace. The CWTs are a small organization, but unless we administer to them an oath to hold privileged information in the stricted confidence, we are in for some serious problems.

Using an assumed voice, I called my son's Creative Writing Teahcher last week and asked, "Regarding the heavy drinking essay, how creative was it?"

"The only thing creative about it was his spelling," he said.

"Whew."

Dr. Lamb

Smoking can cause ulcers

DEAR DR. LAMB — My fiance has ulcers and kidney problems and is a heavy smoker. I'd like your comments on how smoking can affect these health problems.

DEAR READER — According to the U.S. Public Health Service there are one million more cases of peptic ulcer in the United States than there would be if no one smoked.

Cigarette smoking seems to limit the body's mechanism of neutralizing the acid digestive juice as it is emptied out of the stomach into the duodenum, the first part of the small intestine where most ulcers occur.

There is not much information on tobacco and kidney disease, other than to say that some forms of kidney disease are associated with high blood pressure, and the combination increases the chances of heart attacks even at a relatively young age.

Cigarettes cause a long list of problems, including sinusitis, respiratory problems, disease of the heart and circulation, and have even been related to wrinkled skin, giving a premature appearance of aging.

With the cost of health insurance premiums and the increased support for medical costs by the government, all of us are paying for the health problems that the smoker has. In short, we pay for his unwillingness to stop a bad habit. We help pay for his lung cancer, the coronary care unit he needs more frequently, and yes, even his peptic ulcer.

It seems only fair that if non-smokers are going to pay for other people's unhealthy habits that they should have something to say about it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 16-year-old girl and have a constant habit of cracking my knuckles every few minutes. I also crack my back every morning, also my neck, wrists, ankles and toes. It doesn't bother me, but it does my friends. Some say I'll get arthritis and big knuckles. Could you please tell me what harm it does to crack my knuckles, if any? And, if so, could you also tell me how to stop it?

DEAR READER — Friends, parents, and grandparents have used the threat of developing arthritis and big knuckles for years to express their hostility toward the knuckle cracker's annoying habit. Now it seems this threat is all bark and no bite. Knuckle crackers don't develop arthritis.

Dr. Robert L. Swezey of the University of California at Los Angeles Center for Health Sciences and his 13-year-old son put this often repeated threat to the test.

It seems that young Stuart Swezey, like you, enjoys popping all over the place, and his grandmother, like your friends, found it rather annoying. So, the hex was brought forth.

Dr. Swezey and his son studied both young knuckle crackers (average age 11) and old knuckle crackers from a home for the elderly. They also studied non-crackers of the same age. The results failed to show any significant difference in joint disease in the crackers and the non-crackers, in either age group. The injury then is in the listener's perception, or a kind of mental torture, and the only damage the cracker sustains is the results of whatever physical violence the listener is driven to commit upon the knuckle cracker's person.

West shifted to a trump at trick two. South played his ace and led a second trump back to dummy's queen. Then he studied the heart suit.

He saw that he needed five heart tricks and decided to play East for the queen. In case the queen was guarded by three small hearts a first round finesse was necessary. Since queen and three small in the East hand was more likely than a singleton queen in the West hand, South led dummy's jack of hearts and let it ride. West produced the queen and another slam had bitten the dust.

South's play had not really been bad but it had not been the best percentage. He should have played West for the queen because the location of the queen was a fifty-fifty proposition. He could have led a heart to his ace and given himself the extra chance of picking up a singleton queen.

This time it would have worked and the better play would have triumphed.

Creative cook has tough job

No person is able to see or to hear or to smell or to feel or to taste in precisely the same way as is any other person, it's said. But the sense that varies most from person to person is the sense of taste. Some people contend, therefore, that a creative cook has even a tougher job than a composer of music or a painter of pictures. Those variations in the sense of taste make it harder to please a persnickety eater than a concert or art gallery goer.

WHY SUCH a disproportionately large number of striptease dancers were first-born children remains a mystery, but studies show such to be the case.

MIDDLE AGE

Q. "Who said, 'Middle age is when a man feels he gets less for his money each time he goes to the barber'? Was it Franklin P. Jones?"

A. No, O.A. Battista said that. Jones said, "Nothing is so apt to turn a middle-aged woman's hair gray as running out of rinse."

MAYBE EVERYBODY knows the stirrup was one of the most significant military inventions of all time. But not many realize where that thing most probably was first devised. In China, it's believed. The same place where that other significant military invention, gun powder, was concocted. What puzzles historians is why nobody thought of stirrups until 3,000 years after horses were first saddled.

MIDGETS

Far more than half of the adult midgets in this world marry husbands or wives of normal stature.

COST OF this country's first census in 1790 ran about 1 cent per person. Cost of the census in 1970 ran about $1.22 per person.

QUESTION ARISES as to how the proponents of capital punishment know for certain that an execution in the electric chair is absolutely painless. The deadly current moves to the brain from 40 to 70 times faster than the nervous system can send a sensation there, they say. That current knocks the victim unconscious. So it inflicts not pain, but painlessness.

JUNIOR

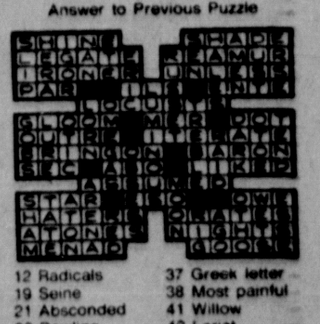

Consider the man, named after his father, known as Junior. One of same asks if a junior is more likely to undergo psychiatric treatment than is a fellow otherwise named. Evidently so. Scholars at Case Western Reserve University made a study of the matter. And they now contend that three times as many juniors as non-juniors seek out professional mental care. Interesting, if true. That's just one study, though.

DID YOU HEAR what Professor Alexander Guiora of the University of Michigan said? A little liquor helps a student to talk in a foreign tongue. That's what. Interesting. Berlitz would do well to serve cocktails in those classes. To facilitate fluency. And build attendance, too, I'll warrant.

State prison, parole systems traced

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third of a five-part series on the prison and parole systems in California, tracing their origins, scandals, reform and how it came to be that the prison population is being reduced by nearly 1,000 each month under a policy instituted this year by the State Department of Corrections, the Adult Authority, and Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.)

By State Sen. H. L. (Bill) Richardson and Tony Cimarusti

As the state's population grew in the early part of this century, so did its criminal element. As mentioned in Part I of this series, the number of prisons increased for men and a separate prison was established for women.

In the mid 1930s, the State Board of Prison Directors was a five-man lay body who served without pay. They were appointed by the governor, subject to confirmation by the Senate, for staggered 10-year terms.

When Gov. Culbert L. Olson was elected and took office in 1938, he appointed John Gee Clark, a Los Angeles attorney, as penology director and chairman of the Sate Board of Prison Terms and Paroles. (In those days, the terminology identified things as what they were.)

Strife in the way of food strikes hit San Quentin in 1938 and into 1939. In February of 1939, 4,000 of the prison's 5,300 prisoners refused to eat.

Clearly, something was wrong. Harsh measures were in order. Ringleaders were identified and locked up in what was then known as "Siberia," part of which is today's death row.

Among the charges stemming from the trouble was that guards severely beat the prisoners.

Clark's investigation showed these accusations to be true, and he brought 12 specific charges against the five-member board, recommending that the governor fire them.

This was done — not without legal battle — and a new board was named in July, 1939. This board immediately asked Warden Court Smith to resign and appointed Clinton J. Duffy as interim warden. Duffy eventually was named permanent warden, and he was to be around for many, many years.

Those changes didn't correct all the problems, some of which were inherent in the system.

Clark supported legislation which would have placed all the California prisons and institutions under a central administive bureau, but that idea was opposed by the Olson-appointed board of directors.

It took another major prison scandal to bring about further reform.

Two years later, after Earl Warren had replaced Olson as governor, a pithy scandal erupted and was reported in the newspapers. It rivaled the battle of Tarawa in the South Pacific for page 1 space in California.

Folsom Prison was the problem area for this latest problem. Research indicates a convict who had received some newspaper notoriety was arrested while visiting a woman friend in her San Francisco apartment, which is over 100 miles from the prison.

Since the woman's apartment obviously was not part of the prison, questions were raised as to why the convict was there, since he had not been reported as an escapee.

It was not the first time that Folsom prisoners were seen away from the prison. It seems as though Folsom inmates were reported as being away from the Folsom harvest camp near Sacramento. They were seen in bars and taverns, in poolrooms and in the company of females.

In the case of this particular inmate, he was seeing his woman friend in San Francisco with the approval of Warden Clyde Plummer. The warden felt she could help the convict's rehabilitation.

As usual when common sense is ignored, the warden was wrong, because this prisoner found himself on death row five years later after killing a loan company cashier during a hold-up.

(It is similar lack of reason which we believe is causing most of our problems with parole and in the operation of the prisons today, but more about that later.)

The Folsom scandal caused Gov. Warren to call the Legislature into special session to pass the prison reorganization bill over the objections of Duffy and the Olson-appointed board.

In January, 1944 the Legislature passed the Prison Reform Act, creating the Department of Corrections, which would establish and oversee uniform policies for all the state prisons and institutions.

Unquestionably, prison reform was a major issue at that time, and part of the Warren gubernatorial campaign had been against the old system.

The scandals gave Warren fresh cause to make the changes he did, and those changes would have lasting impact upon the Criminal Justice System for many years to come.

As a matter of fact, the impact continues until this day, not just from the changes in the system but even more importantly because of the people Warren appointed to fill the new rolls.

More using solar energy

NEW YORK (AP) — Solar energy continues to be a popular design choice of architects, engineers and building owners designing energy-conserving buildings.

The fourth annual OwensCorning Fiberglas Energy Awards competition held in November produced two winning designs, both of which will use solar collectors to satisfy the majority of their heating and cooling requirements.

The Wilton Wastewater Treatment Plant, Wilton, Maine, the industrial category winner, will save $3,594 in heating oil and $875 in electricity costs annually through use of solar collectors and heat pumps.

Terraset Elementary school, Reston, Va., the institutional category winner, is built entirely underground and will use a 7,000-square-foot solar collector which can supply the structure with enough heat to run for three and a half days under cloudy conditions.

Man dying when wed, succumbs

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — They were married in a traditional ceremony in the chapel at St. Vincent Hospital on Nov. 22.

The bride wore a long gown; friends and relatives attended the ceremony as though it were no different than any other wedding.

There was a difference, however: He was dying of cancer, and both the bride and bridegroom knew it.

The marriage of Kenneth LeRoy Adams and Ingrid Okerstedt ended Sunday, only three weeks after the ceremony, when he died of cancer. He was 36 and a member of the Oregon State Police from Newport.

His first wife, Ardeth Ann, died last spring, leaving three children in his care. They are Tonia, 14; Craig, 12, and Douglas, 10.

Concern for the children no doubt was a factor in the marriage, said George Kelly, Adams's step-father. He is from Harlan, Iowa, where Adams was born. But more important, said Kelly:

"They were in love."

Adams never left the hospital after the marriage. His step-father said Adams had known for some time that he was terminally ill, as had many members of the Oregon State Police, including Superintendent Holly Holcomb.

Ironically, Holcomb died before Adams. He was assassinated three days after Adams was married.

The new superintendent of the state police, Robert Fisher, worked with Adams at the old West Slope station near Portland when Adams was hired as a recruit in the early 1960s.

Fisher said troopers who participate in a voluntary program will donate one per cent of one month's pay to the Adams family, as well as to Holcomb's. Each family will get about $10,500, Fisher said.

The Adams family asked that donations in memory of Adams be made to the Oregon State Police and Orphans Fund.

The three children will live with Mrs. Adams in Newport.

UCLA is clicking

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — It was just a matter of time before UCLA's basketball team started to click.

Bruin fans were beginning to wonder after their heroes lost to top-ranked Indiana and were unimpressive in beating San Jose State and Southern Illinois.

But the Bruins looked like their oldselves in romping past San Diego State, 101-86, at Pauley Pavilion Monday night.

The frontline of Richard Washington, Marques Johnson and Ralph Drollinger was simply too much for the outmanned Aztecs as they combined for 67 points.

"I was well pleased," said Gene Bartow, who has the almost impossible task of succeeding the legendary John Wooden at Westwood.

"Drollinger was just phenomenal tonight and it was Washington's best game," Bartow said.

Reserve guard Ray Townsend came off the bench to do his usual top-notch defensive job and score 12 points.

"I was impressed with Townsend tonight," Bartow added. "With his defensive play, it's going to be tough to keep him out of the lineup."

Bartow's biggest problem is finding the right combination. The new UCLA coach is still learning what the personnel can do. As the season progresses, he is sticking more to seven or eight key players.

Andre McCarter and Brad Holland opened at the guard spots Monday night. Townsend came in to play 25 minutes and Jim Spillane will also see plenty of action.

"We have a team with five very talented guards and we can conceivably substitute differently each game depending on how the guards work in practice," Bartow added.

"There is so much talent on this team that anyone is good enough to play regularly if they had enough playing time," Washington said.

Washington equaled his career high at UCLA with 28 points. Drollinger had his career high with 22 and Johnson contributed 17.

In rebounding, UCLA grabbed 59 to the Aztecs' 43 with Johnson grabbing 16 followed by Drollinger with 14 and Washington with 11.

San Diego State (2-4) made a game of it for nine minutes until UCLA outscored the Aztecs, 18-6, to grab a 45-32 halftime lead. The game was really never in doubt in the second half with the Bruins building up a 96-70 margin.

It was UCLA's 84th consecutive win at Pauley Pavilion.

Center Will Connelly led the Aztecs with 28 points and eight rebounds. Allen Bunting added 17 followed by Steve Copp with 12.

Bob Kovach, the former Fontana High and Chaffey College star, scored only five points in making but two of 11 shots but he had seven rebounds.

After playing on the road for all six games, the Aztecs will be glad to play their home opener Wednesday night against Central Michigan.

"We don't know what our gym looks like," Kovach said. "It was exciting to play UCLA at Pauley Pavilion. I never thought I would get this opportunity. UCLA is the best team we have played. They are so aggressive on defense."

UCLA will host Missouri Thursday night followed by Seattle on Saturday.

Ex-SAL cagers are standouts

Just how good is the San Antonio League in basketball?

Well, the defending CIF 3-A champs, Garey High, hail from the SAL, which is a pretty good indication of the toughness of the league in recent years.

Perhaps an even better indication is the number of SAL products now playing for colleges and universities across the country.

Perhaps the best known local product now playing college basketball is Greg Ballard. Ballard, now a junior at the University of Oregon, has sparked the Ducks with his scoring and rebounding of late.

Ballard was the Valley Player of the Year in 1973 when he helped Garey to the SAL title.

Another Valley Player of the Year, Cleve Porter, is now sophomore at the University of Southern California. Porter, who was Valley MVP in 1974 while at Ganesha High, hasn't seen much action with the Trojans so far and might be still a year away from real stardom at USC.

Two of the starters off of last year's Garey CIF championship squad are hoping to see plenty of action this winter at the college level.

Last season's top Viking scorer, Delbert McDonald, is at the University of Wyoming, while playmaking guard Billy Evans is attending United States International University in San Diego and is vieing for a starting berth on the Westerner hoop squad.

Also on the USIU squad with Evans are two former Claremont High cagers, Barry Sayles and Greg Gary.

Gosswiller starting

One local product who has a starting job locked up at the college level is Mark Gosswiller at Northern Arizona University. Gosswiller, a former Montclair High hoop star, has been tabbed as a starting forward for NAU as a sophomore. He averaged eight points and seven rebounds per outing last year at NAU as a freshman.

Another former SALer figuring to start at the college level in 1975-76 is Jeff Webster at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. Webster, who played at Garey High in his prep days, is in his third year on the Whitworth varsity. Last year he averaged seven points per game from his guard position for the Pirates while being regarded as the top defensive player on the club.

Other SAL products at four-year schools include Broderick Hunter (Ganesha) at Arizona State, Stu DuVall (Upland) at Claremont-Mudd, Garry Stewart (Upland) at Pomona-Pitzer, Kevin Finnerty (Chino) at Cal Baptist, Hector LaMarque (Chino) at La Verne, Kevin Finnerty (Chino) at Cal Baptist, Gary Melugin (Ganesha) at Chico State and Curt Oldenkamp (Upland) at Pacific Christian.

Honor local gridders

The year is over for the local prep football players but the post-season honors are just beginning to roll in.

The Los Angeles Times announced its All-San Gabriel Valley prep squad recently, and several locals made the team.

Winning spots on the first team were Bonita's Phil Mertz as an offensive guard and Damien's Greg Elias as a linebacker. Appearing on the second team were Mark Malone of Bonita as a center, Brian Faust of Damien as a defensive lineman, Dan Reed of Walnut as a linebacker and Mark Thompson of Walnut as a defensive back.

Pasadena and West Covina, each with four players on the teams, had the largest representation of any San Gabriel Valley school.

One oddity did appear on the Times selections, and that was the selection of a sophomore, Ron Cuccia of L.A. Wilson, as a first-team offensive back.

Cuccia's statistics more than justify his selection however. The Wilson quarterback passed for over 2,000 yards this past season in leading his team into the L.A. City playoffs.

Jabbar leads Lakers against Cavs tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As the Los Angeles Lakers face the Cleveland Cavaliers tonight, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar leads the National Baskeball Association in three individual statistics.

He leads in field goal accuracy with .545, rebounding with 19.1 per game and blocked shots with 144.

He also is second in scoring with an average of 29 points per game.

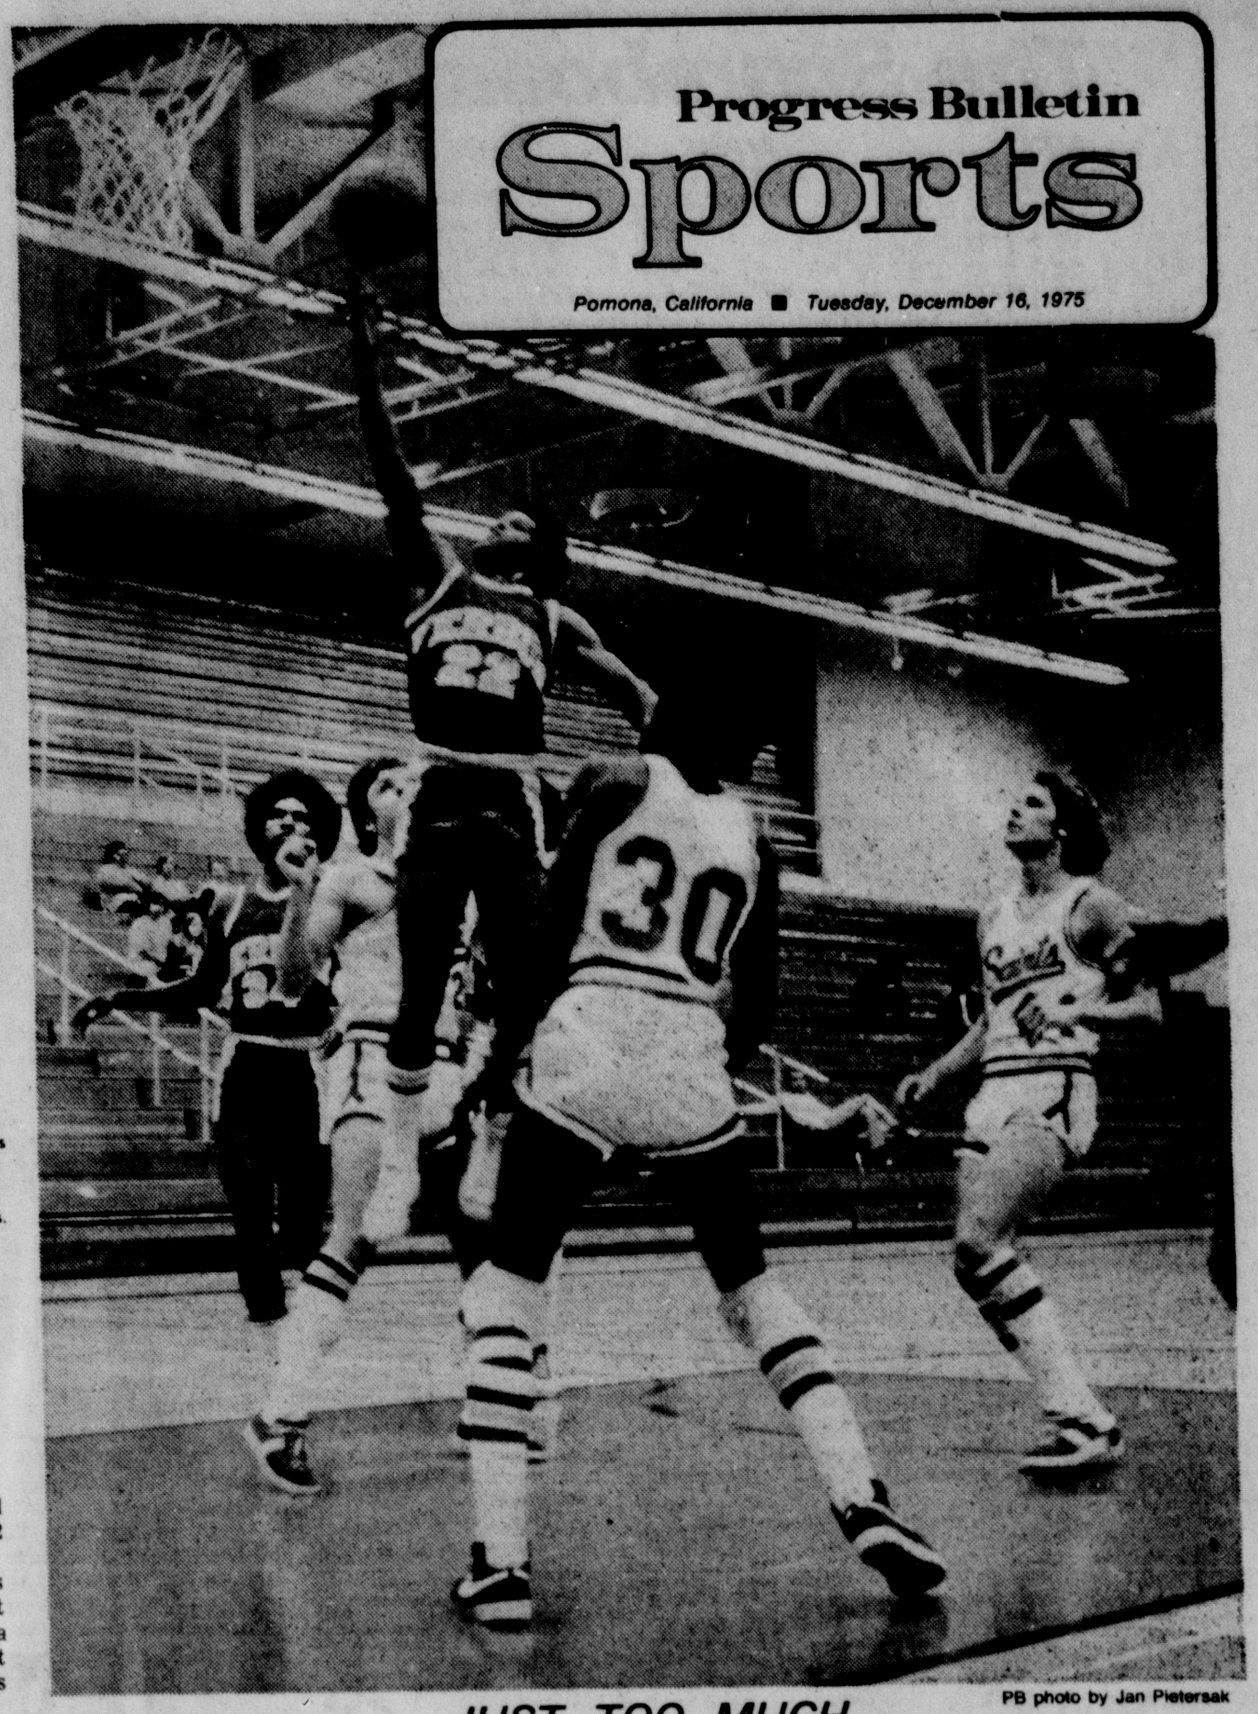

In his last four games, Abdul-Jabbar has hit 62 per cent of his field goal attempts, 48 of 76, averaged 32 points and 23 rebounds.

Against the Cavaliers, the Lakers will be seeking their 15th straight victory at home this year without a defeat and they stand 18-9 overall. At this time last season, Los Angeles was only 12-15.

Then came the trade with Milwaukee for Abdul-Jabbar and the fortunes changed.

NFL playoffs explained

NEW YORK (AP) — First, let's look at what is known, National Football League playoffwise. There's not much.

In the National Conference, the four playoff teams are set. There are the three divisional winners—St. Louis in the East, Minnesota in the Central and Los Angeles in the West—and Dallas as the "wild-card" team.

In the American Conference, Pittsburgh has won the Central Division title and, at 12-1, is the winningest team in the AFC, thus assured of a home playoff opener Saturday, Dec. 27.

Oakland has won the West and, because the Raiders have beaten both Baltimore and Miami, the East Division contenders, Oakland will be at home Sunday, Dec. 28.

The Colts and Dolphins are 9-4 and vying for first in the East. The loser may yet make it into the playoffs as the AFC's "wild-card" entry—but only if the Cincinnati Bengals, now with the best runner-up record in the conference, lose to San Diego next Sunday.

Now let's look at what we really don't know yet. Here's where things get tough.

In the AFC, the Steelers will host Baltimore or Miami. The Raiders will host Cincinnati or Baltimore. In the NFC, Dallas definitely will be a visitor since a wild-card team, no matter what its record, can't play at home. St. Louis, 10-3, has a long shot at opening at home, but the two home spots appear to belong to Los Angeles on Dec. 27 and Minnesota on Dec. 28. Each team is 11-3.

Let's assume the Bengals defeat San Diego. That makes them the AFC wild-card team regardless of what happens over in the East.

If Baltimore beats New England and Miami loses to Denver, the Colts are Eastern champs and Miami is out of the playoffs. If Miami wins and Baltimore loses, then Miami takes the title and Baltimore bites the dust.

But if Miami and Baltimore both win, the Colts will be the East champs because they beat Miami twice. And if Cincinnati loses, the Dolphins would get the wild card because they have seven points—the lower the better—to 12 for Cincinnati in the league's rating system based on a team's standing against conference rivals in the area of points for and points against.

In other words, if a team is third in the conference in points for and second in points against, it has a five rating.

If Miami ends up as the wildcard team, it would play at Pittsburgh and Baltimore would play at Oakland. If Cincinnati is the wild-card team, it plays at Oakland and the East's winner, either Baltimore or Miami plays at Pittsburgh.

If the Vikings and Rams both win to finish 12-2, Minnesota will host Dallas and Los Angeles will host St. Louis. Minnesota would meet the wild card team because it has a 3-5 edge over Los Angeles in the rating.

Top prep teams enjoy easy wins

A pair of highly regarded basketball teams walked through victories Monday in the first night of opening round action at the San Dimas Tournament of Champions at Cal Poly.

Two-time defending tournament champion Verbum Dei High squashed host San Dimas, 94-26, and top-seeded Long Beach Poly knocked off Gardena, 76-54.

Tonight's lineup for the conclusion of first-round action includes Dorsey, the top-rated team in a preseason basketball ranking of schools from the City of Los Angeles, as well as Santa Barbara and Pasadena, rated second and fourth, respectively, in the CIF.

The latter two teams will clash at 7 p.m., with Dorsey meeting Workman at 8:30.

The Saints of San Dimas proved to be no match for the calibre of teams they invite to their annual tournament Monday night in a 68-point loss to Verbum Dei, the CIF 4A champion six years running before a loss to Palos Verdes last year ended the Eagles' string.

"We were just bad," said San Dimas coach Bob Espinoza after the game. "We didn't really give them a chance to show anything. We just don't have the people to give them any competition."

The Saints, obviously tight in the first quarter against so awesome an opponent, found themselves behind, 20-1, after a period.

San Dimas failed to connect on 15 field goal attempts in the first eight minutes, and surrendered the ball seven times on the way to a total of 35 turnovers for the game.

The Saints made just five per cent from the floor in the first half (one of 21), while the Eagles shot 40 per cent (21 of 52). San Dimas finished the game with six field goals to the Eagles' 42.

Verbum Dei center Marcus Hamilton, who received an honorable mention in last year's All-America balloting, scored 20 points, hauled down 21 rebounds and made six steals, while Eagle guards Cliff Sanchez and Rueben Marshall added 20 and 15 points, respectively.

Forward Mark Klein led San Dimas scorers with seven points.

In Monday's nightcap, Long Beach Poly scored an easy 76-54 victory over the Gardena Mohicans, in spite of an unspectacular showing by All-American Poly forward Johnny Nash.

Sellout puts Rams on TV

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams announced Tuesday that their Saturday night National Football League football game against the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers has been sold out in the 91,038-seat Coliseum.

The early sellout gives ABC the opportunity to telecast the game locally as well as nationally.

"We're extremely delighted to announce our first advance sellout," said Rams president Carroll Rosenbloom. "We appreciate the tremendous fan interest and support, and we hope it carries over to our playoff game here on Saturday, Dec. 27.

MSAC defends title at Chaffey

By MIKE RAWLINSON
PB Staff Writer

Mt. San Antonio College defends its title Wednesday through Saturday in the 35th Chaffey Invitational Basketball Tournament at Chaffey College in Alta Loma.

The Mounties take a 6-1 record into first round action against Pasadena City College at 5:50 p.m. Wednesday evening. Defending state champion L.A. Harbor (6-0) and Golden West (7-1) are among the pre-tourney favorites.

MSAC was 7-0 a year ago on the eve of the Chaffey Invitational. When it was all over the Mounties were 11-0 and well on their way to one of the best records in the college's history, 24-4.

Only one starter is missing from that quintet — George Schader. Schader is at Stanford University this year, but the Mounties haven't missed him much in winning six of seven early season games. Schader was MVP at the Chaffey Invitational last year.

The Mounties defeated San Bernardino, Pasadena, L.A. Harbor and San Diego Mesa enroute to the crown in 1974. All those teams are back this year, filling out the 16-team field.

The tournament gets underway at 9:30 Wednesday morning with L.A. Harbor facing Fullerton. Games follow throughout the day at one hour and 40 minute intervals. Host Chaffey plays Golden West in the 9:10 p.m. feature attraction.

Chaffey returns from a two-game series at Hilo, Hawaii, still winless at 0-7. The Panthers figure to get better as the season progresses, but Coach Barney Newlee's inexperienced team doesn't figure to contend in the tourney.

Another valley team, Citrus, opens the event against San Diego Mesa at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday. The Owls have had their ups and downs and are 2-6 as the tourney begins.

Winners and losers return on Thursday in the double elimination tournament. Consolation bracket games will be played at 9:30 a.m., 11:10 a.m., 12:50 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. Championship bracket games will be played at 4:10 p.m., 5:50 p.m., 7:30 p.m. and 9:10 p.m.

Friday's semifinals will be played at 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. on the consolation side and at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on the championship side.

Saturday's finals are scheduled at 5 p.m. for the consolation title, 7 p.m. for the third place game and 9 p.m. for the championship contest.

Poly moves Gamulin to guard

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Cal Poly is considering moving forward Jack Gamulin to the backcourt.

Assistant coach Allen Van Winkle dropped that bit of information in speaking to the Basketball Writers of Southern California in the weekly meeting Monday at Roger Young Auditorium.

"Gamulin is currently averaging over 20 points per game and hitting on 55 per cent of his shots," Van Winkle said. "We need more balance in our scoring and a bigger more physical front line to be successful in conference play."

Gamulin, a 6-6, 190-pound transfer from San Jose State, would combine with 6-3 Joe Sills to give the Broncos two guards with 20-point averages.

Gamulin's place at forward would be taken probably by 6-8, 220-pound Mark Bernhard or 6-7, 225-pound Mark Kluge when Kluge becomes eligible in January.

"We weren't embarrassed anywhere on our trip," Van Winkle said in summing up the Broncs' five-game road trip. "I think it will help our recruiting a lot and provide excellent pre-conference competition."

Although winless, Poly was in every game. The biggest margin of defeat was 14 points to sixth-rated Louisville. Houston and Texas won by 11 each. Van Winkle thought the losses to North Dakota and North Dakota St. were because of poor officiating and said the Broncos could beat those clubs at home.

Tommie Lipsey was named College Division Player of the Week. University honors went to Marcos Leite of Pepperdine. Both are centers.

Lipsey scored 59 points and grabbed 22 rebounds as the Diablos defeated Loyola, 76-72, and lost to Oregon at Oregon, 87-60.

Leite dominated a 99-61 win over Mt. Marty with 29 points in 23 minutes.

Quoting the coaches:

BOB BOYD, USC — "We have to be more consistent. The players have to sustain themselves more on defense. Most players get tired in a game and tend to pace themselves on defense. I think our team has that problem now. We should be 6-0 but let a game get away (Oral Roberts) which should not have happened. We have 131 assists to our opponents' 65 which is a very good statistic. I think we have the makings of a very good team."

BOB MILLER, CAL ST. LOS ANGELES — "We're 3-3 now and just came off a five-game road trip. A little more balance on offense and a little stronger defense and I think we'll be a strong club. Tommie Lipsey is averaging 20 points and 10 rebounds a game and is shooting at a 60 percent rate. I think he'll be the highest scorer in school history. We've a very young club with only one senior and three juniors. Being in the conference (CCAA) is a big help. Last year if we had been 3-3 as an independant our season would have been shot."

DOWN AGAIN — Jets quarterback Joe Namath (right) is hit by Chargers' Coy Bacon (79) in Monday night's game in San Diego. Chargers got their second win of the season, 24-16.

Rough night for Namath

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets was punished from starting against the San Diego Chargers for missing a weekend curfew.

But his belated entrance in the second quarter did little to affect the final outcome of the nationally televised contest.

After dropping 11 National Football League games in a row, the Chargers won their second straight Monday night, beating the Jets 24-16.

Running backs Rickey Young, Tony Baker and Bo Matthews each scored on short touchdown runs and Young rushed for 111 yards in 21 carries, his second consecutive 100yard game.

Steve Davis and John Riggins scored on one-yard plunges for the Jets and Riggins moved to within 67 yards of a 1,000-yard season.

But all that was overshadowed by the 20-minute, 29-second absence of Broadway Joe, which was Coach Ken Shipp-s way of punshing Namath for staying out past the 11 p.m. Sunday curfew.

A crowd of 52,446 San Diego fans booed bitterly when young J.J. Jones opened at quarterback instead of Namath. Jones completed only one of five passes for 13 yards and was intercepted once before Namath finally made his appearance with 9:31 left in the second period.

Namath took the field to a thunderous ovation, but the Jets were already behind 7-3. They never caught up.

Afterward, a contrite, disheartened Namath took the blame for what had happened.

"It's no one's fault but my own," he said.

Namath completed 15 of 29 passes for 181 yards, but was outshone by San Diego quarterbacks Dan Fouts and Jesse Freitas, who combined for eight completions in 16 tries for 109 yards and kept scoring drives alive with clutch passes.

The Chargers scored on the first possession of the game, driving 68 yards in eight plays. Fouts scrambled for 20 yards, then hit wide receiver Gary Garrison for 23 yards to the Jets four yard-line, from where Baker ran it in on the next play.

After Pat Leahy kicked a 20yard field goal for New York, Godwin Turk was penalized for running into Charger punter Dennis Partee, giving San Diego the ball on its own 36.

Fouts hit Pat Curran on a 33-yard passing play, then hooked up with Garrison for 12 more. A nine-yard Baker run put the ball on the Jets two, from where Young dived over the middle for a score to give the Chargers a 14-3 lead at halftime.

Namath led the Jets back in the third quarter, setting up Davis' scoring drive with passes of 29 yards to Carl Garrett and 21 and 16 yards to Jerome Barkum.

But after Fouts went out with a sprained neck in the third quarter, Freitas came in to guide the Chargers to their final 10 points of the game.

A low snap on a Leahy field goal try gave San Diego the ball on the New York 47. Five plays later, Ray Wersching kicked a 45-yard field goal to give the Chargers a 17-10 lead.

On the next series, Chris Fletcher's second interception of the night gave San Diego the ball again, this time on its own 20.

From there, Freitas led an 80-yard, 15-play drive, highlighted by a 22-yard Young dash over right tackle and an 18-yard Freitas pass to Curran. Matthews capped the march with a one-yard plunge.

Riggins, who rushed for 75 yards in 25 carries, added a meaningless touchdown for the Jets with three seconds left in the game.

Indiana hot in overtime

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "Wasn't that a super game?" one fan asked another.

"It sure was," came the replay, "for 40 minutes."

That, in a nutshell, described top-ranked Indiana's pulsating 77-68 overtime triumph over Kentucky Monday night.

Kentucky, which twice came from behind against the unbeaten Hoosiers, held a 62-58 lead with 1:45 left in regulation play. But Indiana rallied on Scott May's two baskets and a fluke tip-in by Kent Benson to tie it 64-64 and force an overtime period.

Given another life, Indiana coolly scored eight straight points to settle the issue, raise its record to 4-0 for the season and avenge their only loss of last season, a 92-90 defeat at the hands of the Wildcats in last year's NCAA Mideast Regional champion-ship game.

"If we don't develop character with this, we'll never develop it," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "This just shows there are a lot of good teams in the country, and we played one of them tonight."

In the only other game involving a Top Twenty team, Richard Washington scored 28 points to lead No. 6 UCLA past San Diego State 101-86 for the Bruins' 84th consecutive home court victory.

Kentucky, despite its No. 20 ranking, had struggled to a 2-2 record, and many felt the youthful club was in for a long rebuilding season.

"They grew up tonight and turned the corner," Kentucky Coach Joe Hall said of his team. "We're coming. We're pushing them and they're responding. What a great effort a young bunch of kids made against the No. 1 team in the nation."

Surprisingly, at least to Indiana partisans among the roaring crowd of 16,615, Kentucky didn't wilt when the Hoosiers built an early lead of 21-9. Kentucky battled back, reeling off the final eight points of the half o pull to within 34-32.

Indiana rolled to a 52-45 advantage midway through the second half, but again Kentucky came back, this time to lead 62-58.

But May, whose shared scoring honors with Benson with 27 points, hit two medium range baskets to tie the game. After Kentucky's Rick Robey scored with 30 seconds left, Indiana got the break of the game when a leaping Benson glanced a loose ball with an outraised hand and it went in for the tying score with just nine seconds to play.

In the overtime, it was all Indiana.

"Maybe we were outtalented and outexperienced, but that didn't bother them," Hall said. "We're doing a lot of growing up on the road—and that's a tough place to do it—but maybe we'll be tougher for it.

"You know, championships are not won now. They're won in March."

UCLA's frontcourt of Washington, Ralph Drollinger and Marques Johnson combined for 67 points for the Bruins, Drollinger geting 22 and Johnson 17. The Bruins led 45-32 at halftime' then outgunned the Aztecs 56-54 in a free-wheeling second half.

In other games, Georgia got 27 points from Jacky Dorsey and romped to a 97-76 victory over Furman, Southern Mississipi beat UC-San Diego 94-72, Seattle defeated Utah State 75-66 and Long Beach State edged Wichita State 58-55.

NO BIAS SCORES

BELMONT, N. Y. (AP) — No Bias, owned and trained by Harold Hodosh, won the first stakes race of his career when the 5-year-old Jacinto gelding took the Vosburgh Handicap at Belmont Park on Nov. 1.

No Bias performed an unusual racing feat one month before the Vosburgh. He ran second in the Fall Highweight Handicap to Honorable Miss one day after winning an allowance race at Belmont. Thoroughbreds seldom do well when running two races within 24 hours but No Bias appears to be an exception.

Kickers takes pair to maintain record

The Pacific Soccer League Diamond Bar Kickers maintained their undefeated record by winning two games last weekend.

On Saturday, the Kickers defeated St. Stephens 8-0 in a PSL Division IV match. Jeff Ratajczak (4), Mike Brocki (3), and Brian Mullan (1) scored for the Kickers.

On Sunday, the Kickers defeated the Bradford Rangers of the Golden State Soccer League 5-0 in an exhibition game. Ratajczak scored three goals and Brocki and Jeff Hooker each scored once.

The Division IV Stars defeated the Bellflower Rangers 21-0 and the Division III Stars were tied by Cerritos United 0-0 in a defensive struggle. Ward Watanabe, Scott Jackson, Mike Waldman, and Tom Tracey anchored the Stars' defense in their tie.

The Spittin' Image Claremont Kings were defeated 4-1 by the San Pedro Bluejacks. The Kings played the Bluejacks to a first half 1-1 tie but were unable to control the Bluejacks offense in the second half. Pat Jones scored for the Kings with the assist going to Jeff Bolln.

This Saturday, the Division III Stars play the Palos Verdes Rovers at 3 p.m. at El Roble Intermediate School. In Division IV, the Diamond Bar Kickers play the South Bay Arsenal at 1:30 and the Claremont Stars play the South Bay Gunners at 3 p.m. with both games scheduled at Hamilton Junior High School in Torrance. The Claremont Kings have a bye.

Saints have it rough

Nash totaled just nine points and five rebounds to take a back seat to forward Mike Wiley, who pumped in 19 and grabbed nine rebounds. Guard Clyde Johnson added 14 points for the Jackrabbits from the outside.

Forward Tony Burrell was the only Gardena player in double figures. He scored 19, caught seven rebounds and blocked two shots.

Gardena held a slight edge in team rebounds (33-31), but Poly finished off the Mohicans with its accuracy. The Jackrabbits hit 29 of 65 from the floor (44 per cent) and 18 of 22 from the foul line (82 per cent). Gardena made 21 of 63 (33 per cent) and 12 of 18 (67 per cent).

Poly, leading 36-26 at halftime, rattled off 11 straight points midway through the third quarter to blow Gardena out of the contest.

San Dimas will battle Gardena in the consolation bracket Wednesday at 3 p.m., and Verbum Dei will take on Poly at 7.

Utags hire McKay aid

LOGAN, Utah (AP)—Bruce Snyder, a former running back at Oregon and offensive backfield coach at the University of Southern California under John McKay, is the new head football coach at Utah State University.

Snyder, a former assistant under resigned-coach Phil Krueger at Utah State, officially will assume his new duties Dec. 22. Krueger resigned last month to accept a coaching post with McKay and the National Football League's expansion franchise, Nampa Bay.

The announcement was made late Monday by USU President Glen L. Taggart.

A Utah State spokesman said the choice was made by a special committee of faculty, administration, alumni, community and athletic representatives on the recommendation of Athletic Director LaVell Andersen and approval of the school's Institutional Council.

Snyder, 35, is the 15th head coach in USU football history and the fifth since 1960.

After graduating from Oregon in 1963, Snyder coached two seasons at a Eugene, Ore., high school then joined the Oregon coaching staff through the 1971 season. In 1972 he coached at New Mexico State, then joined Krueger at Utah State in 1973.

The following season he joined McKay on the West Coast where he worked with USC's offensive backfield.

Asked what plans he had for the Utah State football team next season, Snyder said he was still unfamiliar with its talent.

"But I believe Coach Krueger has left a nucleus of talent and it is basically a sound football program with a lot of tradition," Snyder said.

The choice destroyed chances of former Coach Chuck Mills to return to the position he vacated in 1972 to coach at Wake Forest.

Utah State officials confirmed that Mills had applied for the post and was under serious consideration as of last week. Mills led Utah State teams to a 38-23-1 record between 1967 and 1972.

Devils burned by Inglewood

By DOUG SPOON
PB Correspondent

The Inglewood Sentinels made a shambles of Pomona High's home basketball opener Monday by building up a big lead early in the contest and rolling to a 105-52 victory over the Red Devils.

Four Inglewood players scored in double figures in a game that saw the Sentinels jump out to a 28-8 lead at the end of the first quarter. The visitors increased the lead to 34 points at halftime (50-16) and never looked back in the second half, finally opening up a 53-point margin of victory.

Forward Keith Woods scored 25 points for Inglewood to lead all scorers. Woods hit 8 of 18 field goal attempts and added 9 free throws in 11 attempts. Sentinel guards David Brown and Russell Brown scored 19 points each, and forward Frank Johnson chipped in with 13 for the visitors.

High point man for Pomona was Charles Cole with 16 points. The difference in the game was reflected in the scoring totals of the starters for both teams. Inglewood's starting five contributed 80 points while the Red Devil starters could manage only 40.

Pomona turnovers and some timely steals by the Inglewood guards gave the Sentinels the opportunity to attempt 82 shots in the game, completing 37 for a 45 per cent field goal mark. The Red Devils shot 37 per cent, making 21 of 57 field goal attempts.

The Devils came out shooting at the start of the second half in an attempt to get back in the game while there was still time, and they scored the first five points of the third period.

However, the Sents scored the next nine points.

Stags suffer big loss

RIVERSIDE — The Claremont-Mudd basketball team suffered its worst loss of the season here Monday night, as a hot-shooting Cal Baptist squad beat the Stags 120-60.

The game, for all intents and purposes, was over at the half. At that point Cal Baptist led 62-33, the 62 points being more than C-M would score in the entire contest.

The hosts led only 30-22 with nine minutes left in that first half but then exploded to leave the Stags in the dust.

Cal Baptist shot 60 percent from the floor for the contest, hitting on 54 of 90 shots. In contrast, C-M clicked on only 29 of 79 from the field for a 37 percent average.

The locals added 34 turnovers to make the evening even longer for Stag fans.

Cal Baptist forward Steve Deering led all scorers with 23 points, while teammate Dennis Motley added 21. Dave Willhite and Rich Roth paced C-M with 14 points apiece.

The Stags saw their season record drop to 2-5 with the loss. Cal Baptist is now 7-1 for the year.

Next game for C-M will be Friday at 8 p.m. at home vs. Azusa Pacific.

Pattern in NFL coin flip

By The Associated Press

A definite pattern is being established in National Football League overtime games: lose the coin flip and win the game.

The Baltimore Colts won the league's ninth overtime game of 1975 Sunday, and they became the seventh team to do it after losing the coin toss.

In each of the nine games, the team winning the toss elected to receive the kickoff. But only twice has that team been able to take the ball, score and win.

The Colts were the latest to continue the trend. Tied 7-7 after regulation play Sunday, Miami won the toss, took the kickoff and marched to midfield. Then, Larry Sieple punted out of bounds on the Baltimore four-yard line.

But the Colts marched more than 80 yards and kicked a game-winning field goal.

Had there been no overtime rule this year, the playoff fortunes of the Dolphins and Washington Redskins would be improved considerably.

The Dolphins would still be a game ahead of Baltimore in their division with a 9-3-1 record and could have clinched a spot in the playoffs with a victory this weekend. As it now stands, the Dolphins must win and rely on either Baltimore or Cincinnati to lose to make the playoffs.

The Redskins played in three of this year's overtime games and lost two of them. With three ties instead of two losses and a victory, the Redskins would be only a half-game behind Dallas in their division.

Thus, they could have made the playoffs as a wild-card team by winning this weekend if the Cowboys lost. As it now stands, Dallas is in the playoffs and Washington is out no matter what happens.

This is the second year for the NFL's overtime rule. There were only two overtime games last year. In one, the game remained tied after the 15-minute extra period and in the other the team that won the coin toss lost the game.

All of which would seem to indicate that a team which wins the coin toss in overtime ought to kick off. But is there a coach around willing to risk the flak if he did such a thing and lost the game?

Giant FBers are honored

Five Ganesha High football players have won team awards for excellence this past season.

Receiving special awards were Michael Johnson, most valuable defensive lineman; Keith Lovett, most valuable offensive lineman; Jimmy Lopez, most valuable defensive back; Ron Rentz, most valuable offensive back; and Mike Lacey, most improved player.

Those five Ganesha players will be presented trophies at a Football Awards Assembly, to be held Thursday at the high school's gym.

Giants win tournament

Fresh from a championship in the Charter Oak Tournament last weekend, Ganesha High wrestlers try to continue their streak Friday and Saturday in the Northview High Tourney in Covina.

The Giants claimed three individual weight class titles in the Charter Oak event.

Joe Rivera captured the 120-pound class with three pins and a forfeit victory. Ruben Nava won the 127-pound class with three decisions and one pin. Bruce Flaming won the 138-pound title with two pins and two decisions.

Host Charter Oak was second in the tournament and Sierra Vista was third.

Prep basketball roundup

Damien streak continues

Damien High continued its winning tourney ways Monday at the Alhambra Basketball Tournament, but Ganesha lost a tilt in overtime in the same tourney.

The Spartans edged South Hills 63-60 in opening round action Monday, while the Giants were beaten in overtime by Bell Gardens 82-79.

In the only other prep game played Monday, Webb School overcame a bad start to down Maranatha 53-48 in a non-tourney affair.

Damien performed another comeback Monday to whip South Hills and advance in the Alhambra Tourney. The Spartans trailed the Huskies 60-57 with a minute left in the contest when Damien went to work.

First forward Mike Wetenkamp (who finished the night with 24 points) grabbed a rebound and dribbled the length of the court to score on a short jumper, cutting the score to 60-59.

South Hills then tried a stall, but made a bad pass out of bounds and the Spartans took over again. Mike O'Leary, playing in place of the injured Jon Kolodge, was fouled and made both ends of a pressure-packed one-plus-one free throw situation to put Damien on top 61-60. Kolodge sprained his ankle earlier in the game and is a doubtful performer the rest of this week for the Spartans.

Todd Bell then iced the game seconds later with a layup, the victory pushing the Spartan season mark to 5-3.

Ganesha did not have things go so well in the late going against Bell Gardens. The game was tied at 71-all at the end of regulation time, but Bell Gardens' forward George Crow made seven of his team's 11 points in overtime to pace the victors. Crow finished the night with 26 points.

Ganesha's George Terry also had 26 points, while teammate Michael Williams added 20. But the Giants were hurt in the foul department, as three Ganesha players fouled out of the contest.

The loss drops the Ganesha season record to 4-3.

Both Damien and Ganesha will be out of action in the tourney until Wednesday. On that day Damien will be playing San Gabriel (a 68-63 first-round winner over Duarte) at 6:30 p.m. at the Alhambra boys' gym in the championship bracket. Ganesha will square off against the loser of tonight's Sierra-Perris contest at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Alhambra girls' gym.

Webb had its share of troubles at the start of its game with Maranatha Monday night. The team had to return to the Claremont campus when it was discovered it had forgotten to bring along its game jerseys. With that delay, the Gauls had little warm-up time and suffered through a cold-shooting first quarter.

However, once they found the range they were able to beat host Maranatha. Center Doug Seaborne led all scorers with 22 points, his best outing of the year.

The win gave Webb a 3-4 season ledger. The Gauls will be back in action Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 p.m. at home vs. Pacific.

While Damien, Ganesha and Webb have a day of rest today, five other local hoop squads will be in action.

Garey and Walnut will open play in the Laguna Beach Tourney, Garey at 6 p.m. vs. Loyola and Walnut at 4:30 p.m. vs. Esperanza.

In two non-tourney games, Chaffey will be entertained by Alta Loma at 7:30 p.m. tonight and Hesperia will visit La Verne Lutheran at 2:30 p.m. this afternoon.

WSU sports owe big debt

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—The Washington State University Athletic Department deficit has reached $481,305, a spokesman says.

The total has been swelled by a deficit of $122,000, in the last fiscal year, $22,000 more than anticipated, Associate Athletic Director Glenn Oman said Friday.

Oman, the department's budget manager, said he is hopeful the current fiscal year budget, which began July 1, will end in the black, even after paying $40,000 back to the pool of university funds which are loaing the department money.

"We anticipate breaking even this year, but a lot of things could throw the budget out of whack," said Oan.

Pac-8 opposes playoff system

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Pacific-8 Conference has joined the growing opposition to a proposed collegiate football playoff system.

At a meeting Monday, Wiles Hallock, Pac-8 executive director, said that the conference preferred the annual Rose Bowl game matching the Pac-8 and Big 10 champions.

He described the Rose Bowl as "much more feasible and academically solid," saying a playoff system might financially hurt the two conferences, which receive more than $1 million each from the bowl.

Several other major conferences have gone on record against the proposal which will be voted on next month at the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention in St. Louis.

In other matters, the Pac-8 granted an extra year of football eligibility to fullback Dave Farmer of Southern California, linebacker Phil Heck of California and fullback John Dixon of Cal, all of whom have suffered injuries early in past seasons.

The conference named four football officials as lifetime members of the Pac-8 Official Association. They are: Jake Leicht of Roseburg, Ore.; Tom Cross and Marv Tommervik of Seattle; and Jim Lineberger of Los Angeles.

Sports briefs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Milo Hamilton, former play-by-play announcer for the Atlanta Braves, was named Monday to replace Bob Prince as broadcaster for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 48-year-old Hamilton admitted his task in following Prince would be difficult.

"To say that that has not entered my mind would be foolish," said Hamilton. "We've talked about that in meetings.

"But I've got to be me," he added. "I will not be someone else and I'm sure Bob Prince won't be someone else in Houston."

The surprise firing of Prince and Nellie King by KDKA, which broadcasts Pirates games both on radio and television, created an uproar in this city, which had listened to his colorful barbs, antics and Pirates rooting for 27 years.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — South Carolina State has not decided, yet, whether it will accept an invitation to play Southern University in the annual clash of black football powers in the Pelican Bowl, a school spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman said only that "several matters" were being considered and that an announcement of the school's intentions would be made today.

However, a source close to the athletic program at the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference school said that as late as a month ago, South Carolina State had not been paid all it was owed for last year's Pelican Bowl appearance against Grambling.

No details of that allegation were available.

S.C. State, with an 8-1-1 record, is co-champion of the MEAC. Southern, 8-3, is cochampion of the Southwestern Athletic Conference. Teams in both SWAC and MEAC are predominantly black.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Archie Manning will be sidelined Sunday when his New Orleans Saints meet the Chicago Bears in the National Football League finale for both teams, a Saints spokesman said Monday.

Manning has been suffering with a sore throwing arm, and Coach Ernie Hefferle decided Monday to start second-year quarterback Larry Cipa and spare Manning's arm. The soreness was reportedly due to tendonitis in Manning's right shoulder.

In 13 games this year, Manning has hit on 159 of 338 passes for 47 per cent. He has been intercepted 17 times and sacked 49 times.

The Saints are 2-11 this season.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics announced Monday that Harry G. Fritz, athletic director at the State University of New York at Buffalo, will become executive director of the NAIA on April 1.

Dr. Fritz succeeds Al O. Duer, he organization's chief administrative officer who retired on July 31 after 28 years.

Friz, 55, who is also the school's dean of health and education, was introduced at a news conference by Dr. Robert C. Livingston, NAIA president and acting executive director.

SEATTLE (AP) — A Seattle delegation that failed to win the Chicago White Sox for this Northwest city is making an effort to buy the San Francisco Giants, potential co-owner Lester Smith said Monday.

Smith said he and entertainer Danny Kaye would meet with Charles Feeney, president of baseball's National League, on Tuesday to discuss a sale.

The Giants have until Dec. 30 to find a buyer or be taken over over by the league. The league has advanced money to the club, leaving Feeney as negotiator.

Smith and Kaye last week lost their bid to buy the White Sox to Bill Veeck.

Smith said the Giants are the logical team to move from the Bay Area into Seattle's new Kingdome because that club is losing money.

He said he thinks the American League may be ready to help with problems caused because of the existing Giants' lease to Candlestick Park.

CINCINNATI (AP) — An attorney for veteran right-handed reliever Clay Carroll said Monday that some progress has been made toward completing a deal which would send the durable Cincinnati Reds pitcher to the Chicago White Sox.

Jerry Kapstein said discussions with White Sox General Manager Roland Hemond have been fruitful.

Carroll, who holds Cincinnati's club record for pitching in the most games, is reportedly seeking a multiyear contract at over $100,000 a year.

He was traded to Chicago Friday during the winter baseball meetings, but has so far refused to give his approval to the trade. As a 10-year major league veteran he has the right to veto the trade.

The Reds would acquire lefthanded pitcher Rich Hinton and catcher Jeff Sovern.

MIAMI (AP) — World-record sprinter Houston McTear may not be able to accept a football scholarship he signed with the University of Florida because of low grades, according to his high school principal.

C. Douglas Griffith, principal of Baker High School in the Florida Panhandle, told the Miami News that McTear's two-year cumulative average is about 1.85, or a high "D".

McTear needs a 2.0 or "C" academic average to qualify for a National Collegiate Athletic Association scholarship.

"To get the scholarship, Houston must pass everything and shoot for a 'B' average the rest of the school year," Griffith said. "So now, it'll be up to him."

Bowlers open winter tour

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Professional Bowlers Association winter tour opens Dec. 28, with a record $1.3 million total purse including six events worth $100,000 or more each.

PBA Executive Director Joe Antenora said the average purse will be $80,000, with 16 nationally televised tournaments.

The season begins in Arcadia, Calif., one of three new tourney sites. Other newcomers are the Pro Classic at Garden City, N.Y., Feb. 17, and a 5-Star Open March 2 at Tamarac, Fla., both $100,000 events.

Other top-money meets are an invitational at Las Vegas, Jan. 11; an open at Windsor Locks, Conn., Feb. 24; the U.S. Open at Grand Prairie, Tex., March 14, and the $125,000 Tournament of Champions at Akron April 12.

The T of C is one of three meets to be staged in Ohio. The others are the $65,000 Cleveland Open Feb. 2 at suburban North Olmsted, and an $80,000 open in Toledo April 6.

Completing the list are meets Jan. 6 at Alameda, Calif.; Jan. 20 in Denver; Jan. 27 at Overland Park., Kan.; Feb. 10, Baltimore; March 9, Metairie, La.; March 23, Florissant, Mo.; and March 20 at Milwaukee.

Antenora said that because of increasing entries, qualifying rounds will be played at Arcadia and Alameda, Denver, Kansas City, Windsor Locks and Florissant. Initial fields will be limited to 128 to 144 players with 72 to 80 qualifying.

Antiblackout law passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to make permanent the sports antiblackout television law which allows telecasting of any local professional event that is sold out in advance was passed 363 to 40 by the House of Representatives Monday.

The legislation was then sent to a joint congressional committee to iron out differences with the Senate, which passed a similar bill last week that would have extended the law for three more years. The two houses of Congress must now agree on a joint version of the legislation, and both must pass it.

The purpose of the legislation is to renew an expiring law that was enacted three years ago. Its primary purpose was to stop the National Football League from refusing to show telecasts of its games in the area surrounding the city where a game is played.

The league fought renewal of the legislation, claiming the number of persons—no-shows — who were buying tickets and not attending games was hurting the sport.

The bill passed by the House Monday retains the 72-hour limit in which professional football games must be sold out before they can be televised localy.

However, the House Commerce Committee said that "since postseason playoffs in baseball, basketball, and hockey involve series play, it is often not possible to know 72 hours in advance whether a game will even be played. Changing the time from 72 to 24 hours recognizes this inherent difference between postseason games in professional football and those in professional baseball, basketball, and hockey."

And the 24-hour limit on those sports was imposed in the House bill.

The Commerce Committee, which recommended the bill, said its goal was "to provide for live television broadcasting whtiin the home territory of professional football, baseball, basketball and hockey clubs of games played by such clubs at home which are sold out and which are to be televised elsewhere pursuant to a league television contract."

The committee said it "believes that the American public has benefited from the enactment" of the temporary antiblackout law "and that the benefits will continue in the future as a result of the permanent legislation embodied" in this bill.

The legislation also prohibits a television station from making any agreement to refuse to televise any pro football game that takes place within 75 miles of the station.

The committee said this was added in order to deal "with instances where NFL clubs have expanded the territory they black out for home games which are not required to be televised" under existing law.

It cited the Miami Dolphins, which began blacking out television stations 128 miles away in Fort Myers, Fla., and the Denver Broncos, which blacks out stations in Pueblo, Colo., 105 miles from Denver.

Squires get good crowds

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Squires have the worst record and the shakiest franchise of the seven surviving American Basketball Association teams, but you couldn't prove it at the box office.

A sellout crowd of 10,010 turned out Monday night at Norfolk's Scope to watch the Squires absorb a 131-110 shellacking from the Denver Nuggets in the only ABA action scheduled. It was the Squires' fifth straight defeat, dropping their record to 4-22.

But it had to be a shot in the arm for the team's owners, who seem to be operating on a day-to-day basis in their hopes of finishing out the season. Their dream, perhaps impossible, is gaining admission to the National Basketball Association and television exposure.

For a three-game set with the Nuggets that began last Thursday night in Richmond, the Squires attracted 21,760 fans—6,186 in Richmond and 5,564 Friday night in Newport News before the game here.

While former North Carolina State All-American David Thompson, who led the Nuggets with 21 points Monday night in their sighth straight victory, might have been the big attraction, full-page newspaper ads calling on fans to "save the Squires" could have helped.

In the last five games at Scope since it was announced the Squires would remain in business with the aid of funds from the Norfolk Investment Co. (NIC), the Squires' average attendance has been 7,684.

If nothing else, it enabled the franchise to meet its payroll Monday, thus assuring the players will be around another two weeks.

But the big financial backing still is missing, since the Small Business Administration has refused to make federal funds available to the black-oriented NIC unless majority control passes to minority-group interests.

Majority control of the Squires now rests with two white men, Van Cunningham and Ted Broecker, who own 51 per cent of the stock.

"We still have alternatives. Actually, the SBA was very encouraging that something could be worked out," says Kirk Saunders, general manager of NIC, which had anticipated investing $200,000 in the franchise. So far, however, no plans have been announced.

While no one connected with the team wil say so, the Squires are reported trying to deal away injured all-star guard Mack Calvin, one of three players acquired in a deal with Denver that gave the Nuggets draft rights to Thompson. There have been no takers.

The players are reported unhappy—over the uncertainty of the club's future and also with new Coach Bill Musselman, whose substitution nethod sources say, in effect, is "don't substitute."

In economy moves, the players have agreed to accept a per diem cut in expense allowances and ride coach instead of first class on flights to games away from home. The Hampton office has been shut down and one employe dismissed in Norfolk for a $35,000 saving.

What the seventh largest home crowd in Virginia's history saw Monday night, however, isn't designed to keep attracting fans forever.

The Nuggets hit 81 per cent of their floor shots in the first period and 62 per cent in the second. That came out to 70 per cent for the first half and a 70-49 Denver lead.

Claude Terry and Byron Beck had 18 points each, Bobby Jones 17 and Dan Issel 16 for the Nuggets. Mike Green had 22, Johnny Neumann 19 and Jim Eakins 18 for the Squires.

Honors for Cadet Keetle

BOONVILLE, Mo. — Cadet Matthew W. Keetle, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stanley Keetle, Jr. of La Verne, has been named by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association to the Missouri All-State Football Team for Division 1A schools.

Keetle, a senior at Kemper Military School in Boonville, was a standout at offensive running back for the Kemper football squad this past season. During the six-game regular season he gained 837 yards rushing on 132 carries.

He rushed for 275 yards in one game this year and 262 yards in another, both times setting school marks for most yardage in a contest.

Long Beach will run Grand Prix in March

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The City of Long Beach announced officially Monday that it will host a Formula One Championship points race through its city streets next March.

Dates were officially set for March 26-28 with the big race the final day with a field of international auto drivers competing for an estimated $265,000 in prizes.

Christopher R. Pook, president of the sponsoring Long Beach Grand Prix Association, made the announcement and said:

"All arrangements have been made with the Committee Sportive Internationale, the Constructions Association and the Grand Prix Drivers Association."

As a prelude to the Formula One race, Long Beach held a Formula 5000 race last September which was won by England's Brian Redman averaging 86.325 miles per hour. Formula One drivers will go faster, approaching 100.

The United States has become the first nation in the world to be awarded two world championship Grand Prix races in the same year. The United States Grand Prix East will be held in Watkins Glen, N.Y.

Only the Monte Carlo Grand Prix is similar to Long Beach with racing through city streets.

Niki Lauda, the 26-year-old Austrian who won the world driving championship of 1975 in his Ferrari, heads the field for the Long Beach inaugural.

Other world famous drivers of Formula One cars expected to compete include Brazil's Emerson Fittipaldi, Sweden's Ronnie Peterson, Swizerland's Clay Regazzoni, South Africa's Jody Scheckter, New Zealand's Chris Amon, France's Jean-Pierre Jarier, Britain's Tom Pryce and America's Mario Andretti.

Andretti, Pryce, Scheckter and Amon drove in the Formula 5000 race prelude to the Formula One international classic.

'Othello'

Pomona does drama

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

Honest Iago outpointed the noble Moore, and the villainous machinations of the court almost outweighed the examination of jealousy and revenge in the Pomona College production of "Othello" this past weekend, but the Shakespearean tragedy emerged as a solidly dramatic and moving production.

The 3-hour presentation, under the direction of visiting director Jan Skotnicki, will be repeated in Homes Hall at 8 p.m. Jan. 8-11.

Drama professor Isaiah Sanders in the title role, gives a powerful and versatile performance as the beleagured general torn by jealousy, moving gracefully from coy, chuckling love play to the soaring anguish of betrayal and despair. The heart-rending "O! now, for ever farewell the tranquil mind; farewell content!" fills the theater with thunder and pathos.

Equally vital and persuasive is the performance of Stephen Young, English professor, as the treacherous Iago, a volatile and convincingly insidious characterization. In his manipulation of his superior officer, Young's Iago emerges as the stronger of the two, and his smilingly boyish treachery is as smooth as an asp. Young's superbly eloquent hands of often limited to finger-picking and hand-washing in an exaggerated Uriah Heep style that is distracting. However, he uses his voice and body well and reacts with the poise and skill of a professional actor.

Skotnicki's undergraduate cast, though a notable cut below the principals, offers sturdy support, with occasional flashes of brilliance. Eric Engdahl's Cassio is intelligent and colorful, though his transition from booby to mature officer seems abrupt. Bruce Mirken as the Duke and Barry Crooks as Montano have more talent than is called for in their small parts. Michael Phillips as Roderigo is adequate, and Brian Tucker as Brabantio offers little to the proceedings.

The women, as they do in most Shakespearean plays, come off poorest. Katherine Alford plays Desdemona to its undemanding and unrewarding hilt; Sunny Welles does her best with Emilia; and Cheryl Turner gets in some good licks with the spitfire Bianca.

Skotnicki, a professional director in Poland, offers an imaginative, smoothly paced production of this slightly truncated "Othello." There is a woodenness and lack of involvement among the supernumeraries that detract, but there is generally clean action and intelligent projection throughout.

The brief musical introductions and inventive use of triangular draperies, like sails of a ship providing varying settings, are effective.

Mummers call drama tryouts

The Fontana Mummers will hold open tryouts for "Inherit the Wind" at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Playhouse, 16256 Foothill Blvd., Fontana.

Claude Jones of Upland will play Henry Drummond and also direct the drama by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. Jon Michik of Ontario will play Matthew Harrison Brady.

Rehearsals will get under way Jan. 3, with the show scheduled for four weekends starting Feb. 5.

JOHNNY WONDER

When we eat almonds (pronounced AH munds), we are eating the delicious seeds of the beautiful almond tree.

Each seed grows in a thin, smooth shell that looks somewhat like a peach pit. In fact, the almond is a relative of the peach.

The growing fruit resembles the peach until it approaches maturity, but its outer flesh does not develop and become sweet and edible as in the peach.

Instead, its covering shrivels as the fruit ripens and becomes a leathery hull that splits open and frees the pit, or seed, which is what we call the nut.

When the nuts are ripe and the hulls have split open, the almonds are shaken from the tree. They may drop onto canvas sheets laid on the ground, or be gathered from the ground by special pick-up machines. Some trees produce sweet nuts, which we eat. Others produce nuts that contain an acid that makes them bitter. Bitter almonds provid an oil used as flavoring.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

There comes a time in every woman's life when she must take a stand and do what she thinks is right and good for herself. To this end, I have told Father that I wish to travel to San Francisco and become a Newspaper Editor of great repute.

How immature he was to the notion! He turned a crimson that very nearly matched the sofa and sent me to the cellar for a jar of jelly.

Later in the evening Father brought a Mr. Curtis LeSage around to our house to make my aquaintance. Mr. LeSage is Father's idea of a Suitable Match for me! Oh Dread! I am not interested in the affections of a man who brings me snap dragons and marble cake!

I want a dashing young blade who will let me smoke cigarettes and ride in areoplanes and wear trousers and read romantic stories. I want a man like Aesop Drake, the swordsman in the Edison Pictures.

Mother says a man like Mr. Drake will make me old before my time and will not supply me with a sensible life. Hang the sensible life! (Aren't I daring with my words? Pray Mother does not find this journal!)

Tonight I shall sleep on my back as Mother says such a position causes wild dreams in young women. Oh Joy!

You've come a long way, baby.

What a wonderful way to LOSE FAT!

The "MODEL-ETTS" way helps curb your appetite.

HELPS YOU LOSE THAT EXTRA WEIGHT

- NO CALORIE COUNTING!
- NO SPECIAL DIETS!
- NO EXERCISES!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods. HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS.

These New York doctors discovered a food adjuvant called "MODEL-ETTS."

"Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

Before "Model-etts" was offered to you, it was tested clinically by the doctors on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found:

1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever.
2. 96% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight.

"Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjuvant – not a drug.

So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

You can get a full month's supply of "Model-etts" for $3.00 on money back guarantee. In clinical tests, "Model-etts" was 96% successful. "Model-etts" may not be 100% successful in all cases, but you take no risk in trying "Model-etts" on our Money Back Guarantee.

Come to any General Nutrition store to get "MODEL-ETTS." The sooner you start, the sooner you may have the loss of weight you yearn for.

Sounds too good to be true, BUT IT IS TRUE!

HOW MODEL-ETTS CURBS YOUR APPETITE

In the opinion of the supervising physician, based on the average of weight losses in the clinical tests, his calculations showed that 1 Model-etts Wafer has the hunger-satisfying capacity of 1 pound boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.

FREE Fruit-Flavored Chewable, Natural VITAMIN C

Taste it . . . and enjoy the most delicious and complete Vitamin C nutrition that ever melted in your mouth!

Why Nutrition Square Chewable Vitamin C Tablets are made with Natural Acerola Berries.

The tropical acerola berry is one of nature's wonders. It is amazingly rich in natural Vitamin C—up to 80 times as rich as an equal amount of orange juice.

ONE TO A FAMILY
NOT VALID BY MAIL

Nutritional science knows that you need Vitamin C every day. It affects every single cell in your body. Yet your body can't store it. But, without a sufficient supply of Vitamin C, your body can't manufacture a special cement called "collagen"—the cement that holds every single cell in the body together. So you can see how important it is to be sure of getting enough Vitamin C.

That's where Nutrition Square Natural Vitamin C with Acerola comes in. These new chewable Vitamin C tablets have such a wonderfully tangy true-fruit taste, people love to chew them like candy. Even kids who can't swallow pills will gladly chew their daily Nutrition Square Vitamin C with Acerola. They'll look forward to its melt-in-your-mouth goodness so much, they'll remind you to give it to them. (In fact, they'll probably ask for more—but how many you give them is between you and your doctor.) We're so sure that, once your family tastes Nutrition Square Natural Vitamin C with Acerola tablets, everyone in your family will insist on them . . . we're offering you this free taste test.

Limited to 1 free offer per family. Must be redeemed at the store with purchase.
